

Licking Valley Courier

Subscription, $1.50 a year

Devoted to the Advancement of the Better Things for Morgan County and West Liberty

Always in Advance

VOLUME 26, NO. 24

WEST LIBERTY, MORGAN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, JANUARY 16, 1936

WHOLE NUMBER 1318

Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carter returned last week to Springfield, Mo.

Forest Bays of Elkfork is moving in with D. B. Allen on Water street.

Born, Monday, Jan. 13, to Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Henry at Index, a fine big boy.

Mrs. Willa Carter, who has been in poor health for several months, is slowly improving.

Opal Dawson of Ashland came in for Christmas and spent two weeks with her parents here.

Miss Sylvia Egelston attended the funeral Monday of her cousin, Carl McGlothen, near Frenchburg.

FOR SALE—1931 Whippet Coupe in good running condition, $125 cash. Roscoe Brong, West Liberty, Ky.—Adv.

Mr. and Mrs. Burns McKenzie and son Wayne and his wife moved the first of the week to their farm on Lick fork.

Elmer Howard, son of Boon Howard of White Oak, is in a critical condition at the Good Samaritan hospital in Lexington.

The filling station on the Kendall lot on Main street is nearly ready to begin business. The gas tanks are now being put in.

Mrs. Wormsley was called to the Jackson hospital to the bedside of her brother, Troy Arnett, who has just had a serious operation.

Ed Cochran was called home from Oklahoma to the bedside of his mother, Mrs. Elijah Cochran. Mrs. Cochran is improving a little.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Davis' baby girl, who has had asthma for several weeks, begins to look healthy and is able to be taken out some.

Mrs. Amy McClain's fine new residence on the corner of Court and Water streets is almost completed and will soon be occupied by Drexel Moore and family.

Miss Maurine Howard, daughter of Bernard Howard of White Oak, who has been in the St. Joseph hospital at Lexington since before Christmas, is slowly improving.

Miss Lillian Howard, a student at Hazel Green, spent Christmas at White Oak with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harris Howard, and her father, Bernard Howard.

LOST: A bunch of keys in a leather case, probably at Malone or between there and Jackson. Reward for return to this office. E. I. Dawkins, mail carrier. (Adv.)

Densmore Martin of Prestonsburg, taking an engineering course in the state university, accompanied his room mate, Pritchard Caskey, home for a ten days' visit during the holidays.

The contest at the M. E. Sunday school is causing quite an increase in attendance. Mrs. Winfred Carpenter and Miss Ethel Mae Keeton are the captains. Mrs. Carpenter's side is 23 ahead at present.

MEN WANTED for Rawleigh Routes of 800 families in Powell and Martin counties. Reliable hustler should start earning $25 weekly and increase rapidly. Write today. Rawleigh, Dept. KYA-280-S, Freeport, Ill. (Adv.)

Mrs. Lula Belle Elam, worthy matron of the Eastern Star chapter here, and other officers and Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Henry, Mrs. Curtis Franklin, Mrs. Lillian Blair attended the reception given by the Ashland chapter in honor of Mrs. Elsie Sebastian, grand conductress. Mrs. Sebastian is living in Ashland but is a member of Paulina chapter in West Liberty.

Mr. and Mrs. Winfred Carpenter entertained the following friends at their home Thursday night: Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Stacy, Mr. and Mrs. Yandal Wrather, Mrs. Wrather's mother, Mrs. Acton, Rev. and Mrs. C. S. Boggs, Mrs. D. B. Keeton and daughter Ethel Mae, Helen Stacy, Frances Ann Stacy, Joe Stacy, and Kenneth Coleman Carpenter. They enjoyed Mrs. Carpenter's taffy candy.

OFF TO A GOOD START

Kentucky's new administration, headed by Governor Albert B. Chandler, and its 1936 General Assembly, have obtained a good start toward carrying out the campaign promises made by the governor.

At the beginning of his administration, Governor Chandler began reorganization of the state government. Orders went out for drastic reductions in the personnel of the many departments, some being practically eliminated and all being skeletonized to such an extent that the administrative costs should be pared to the bone. Naturally it will not be possible to operate all departments with the maximum of efficiency on their present small forces. But nine of every ten of them can be operated even more efficiently than ever before with a resultant saving of a considerable amount to the state in salaries. Some of the departments can be consolidated, and this doubtless will be done a little later when the Reorganization Commission, headed by J. C. W. Beckham gets to functioning at maximum efficiency.

The message of Governor Chandler to the Legislature stands out as one of the most sensible ever delivered by a state executive to its lawmakers. Campaign promises were embodied into suggestions for legislation and the assemblymen were told that dilatory tactics in enacting the laws would not be tolerated. Governor Chandler gave his orders in such a way that he strengthened the hand he holds upon the reins of the state government. He outlined a legislative program that is the most constructive in the recent history of the state, if not in its entire history. Not only does it appeal to the popular support because it asks repeal of the sales tax; it includes the suggestion for the smartest piece of legislation ever called for anywhere in the proposed law enabling the Governor to ask rulings from the Court of Appeals on major legislation before it is finally enacted.

Whether Governor Chandler is personally responsible for this legislative program and the other commendable features of his administration as evidenced to date, the Daily News, of course, does not know. If he is, then what "Uncle Charley" Moran said about "Happy" is true. There are indeed no heights impossible for him to scale and he may, as "Unc" said, one day be President. But, even if "Happy" is not personally responsible for them, he at least had the good sense to seek capable advisors. And that is more than any of his recent predecessors have done.—Bowling Green Daily News.

WORDS OF CONDOLENCE

January 8, 1936.
Mr. William McKenzie,
West Liberty, Ky.
My Dear Will:

Please allow me to express to you and yours, my deep sympathy caused by the tragic death, a few days ago, of your brother, Bruce. It was a great shock to me when I heard of his sudden taking away. Naturally, it revived old memories; recollections of times and occasions when Bruce and I, and others of our acquaintances, were enjoying to the full the pleasures of our young manhood.

But time moves unobstructedly on, and with the current we also move along to the end of the way, and in the wake we hear the footsteps of those who are to follow or take our places. It is, indeed, a benevolent favor of the Gracious One when He throws before us a veil which hides from our view the many heart-breaking things which lie before us.

And for your consolation may I reverently add that the Omnipotent One has provided that your brother, Bruce, together with all the dead, may live again.

Along with those many friends who have tendered their deepest sympathies to the bereft ones of the loved one gone, allow me, please, to tender mine.

Your Friend,
J. P. HANEY

HOW COME

In some old papers I find the following, which may be of interest: "Whence comes the expression, 'United we stand, divided we fall'? From an old ballad by George Pope Morris, a verse of which reads: 'A song for our banner! The watchword recall, Which gave the republic her station: 'United we stand, divided we fall'; It made and preserves us a nation.'"

HUGH MINOR

Principles of Just Taxation

Professor Clyde L. King of the University of Pennsylvania in a book recently published called "Public Finance" discusses the intricate subject of taxation rather fully and summarizes his conclusions with the following fourteen principles of a just tax system:

1. Revenues from taxes should be adequate to meet essential public services.
2. Taxes should be levied in proportion to ability to pay.
3. As far as possible, the processes of production should be freed from the burdens of taxation.
4. The tax paid should come more largely from income than from capital.
5. Taxes should be equitably distributed as between city and country, and as between industries and individuals.
6. Taxes should be so chosen and levied as to keep the cost of collection as low as is consistent with equity.
7. Taxes should be so chosen and levied as to take out of the pockets of the people as little as possible over the amounts brought into the public treasury.

8. Government benefits and services when specific and direct should be paid for directly by those receiving such benefits.

9. Burdensome duplication of taxes as between states, cities, local governments, and the nation should be avoided.

10. The tax system should be sufficiently diverse and elastic to meet sudden shifts in public need or in industrial conditions.

11. Equity requires consideration as to whether taxes are shifted to others by those who first pay them.

12. The amount of tax due should be clear, and the time and method of payment convenient to the taxpayer.

13. The social end to be attained by the tax must be considered in choosing the kind of taxes to be levied.

14. Taxes should be so chosen and levied as to further national development and to enhance the social income

SALES TAX REPEALED

The Kentucky state senate yesterday administered the knockout to the sales tax which was pressed on the brow of an already overburdened people nineteen months ago by the most audacious and unprincipled conspiracy ever perpetrated on a free people. Governor Chandler, a foe of the tax from its inception, affixed his signature to the repealer yesterday and today the people are free.

Married at Paintsville

Marvin Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Reed of Salyersville, and Miss Sarah Louise Cisco, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Cisco of Salyersville, were married at Paintsville on Saturday evening. The young couple had a happy honeymoon trip to Portsmouth, Ohio, and Ashland. They have now settled in West Liberty, where Mr. Reed will assist his father in the mercantile business.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks and appreciation to our friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy during the sickness and death of our son and brother, Franklin Brown.—Parents and Brothers of Frank Brown

FOR RENT OR SALE

One share of the Gardie Cottage estate for cash only. Party without cash need not apply. Address Mrs. Charles Winkler, 419 Brownell ave., Lorain, Ohio. (Adv.)

Miss Florence McGuire visited in Lexington on Monday and Tuesday.

J. D. Lykins was taken quite sick in his office Friday, but is better now.

Robert Davis of Cannel City visited his sister, Mrs. Winfred Carpenter, last week end.

S. Monroe Nickell of Lexington was transacting legal business in town the first of the week.

Mrs. H. B. Murray is in Louisville with her mother, who is in a serious condition in a hospital there. She is reported a little better.

Mrs. Henry Cole took her husband to a hospital at Cincinnati, O., Saturday. Mr. Cole is still suffering from severe attacks of asthma.

F. H. Byers of West Liberty and Cecil Lovely of Royaltown attended a meeting of resettlement workers at Lexington on Monday and Tuesday.

Jack Arnett is planning the construction of a new home on South Main street between O. B. Arnett's residence and the one owned by Floyd Arnett, on the corner.

The Howard and Gullett Beauty Shoppe is putting on specials for a week, beginning Monday. You will be pleased with their work, and the prices will suit your pocketbook. (Adv.)

W. O. Pelfrey and daughter Sally accompanied Mrs. Pelfrey to the Mary Childs hospital Tuesday. She had an operation yesterday and came out of the ether with promising improvement.

MAN AND WIFE wanted to run local coffee agency. Earnings up to $300 in a month. I send everything needed. No money risk. Ford Sedan given if you qualify. Details free. Albert Mills, 46 Monmouth, Cincinnati, Ohio. (Adv.)

EDITORIAL SQUIS

The bigger a man feels, the smaller he is.

The home-makers have a club, and the home-breakers need one.

Test of friendship is whether a person laughs with you or at you.

Processing tax on a road hog should be about $10 and costs for each of fence.

Apparently some of the wild geese are still going South—on the highways.

Kentucky has six living ex-Governors most of them, however, dead ones.

Hauptmann says he will get justice, and most of us agree with him—January 17.

Gov. Chandler says the Capitol is dirty and needs cleaning. He has already made a pretty good start at the job.

Mr. Hoover speaks January 16 on "Agriculture" in Lincoln, Neb., a state where farmers burned corn for fuel during his administration.—Elizabethtown News.

SEWING CIRCLE MEETS

The Church of God Sewing Circle met at the home of Mrs. M. H. Ferguson on Jan. 10. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. W. T. Stamper. Opening songs were "Promised Land" and "I'm Going that Way." The hostess read the twelfth chapter of Romans and Miss Sallie Minor led in prayer. Minutes of last meeting were read by the secretary.

Present were Mrs. W. T. Stamper, Mrs. J. D. Benton, Mrs. W. J. Terrell, Mrs. Phil Donovan, Mrs. Howard Bach, Mrs. L. C. Terrell, Mrs. Geo. Collinsworth, Mrs. J. W. Benton, Miss Sallie Minor, Miss Gladys Benton, Miss Allene Bach, and Miss Wilma Benton.

The hostess, assisted by her daughters, Lena and Melvora, served refreshments of apples and candies. Everyone enjoyed the afternoon. The next meeting will be with Mrs. W. J. Terrell on Jan. 24.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETS

The Missionary society of the M. E. church South met at the home of Mrs. Yandal Wrather on Thursday, Jan. 9, for business meeting and program. Rev. Clyde Boggs gave an interesting talk on "What Shall I Render Unto the Lord?"

After the business session the meeting was turned over to the program committee. Mrs. C. K. Stacy gave a talk on the life of Susannah Wesley, the mother of John Wesley, founder of the Methodist church. Mrs. D. R. Keeton told the history of the society since its organization 25 years ago.

The hostess served plate lunch cafeteria style.

The society will meet Feb. 6 with Mrs. Herbert Traynor.

SPORTSMEN TO MEET

On Saturday, Jan. 18, at 1 p.m., the sportsmen of Morgan county will meet at the courthouse to elect new officers, replenish funds, and to affiliate and become a member of the League of Kentucky Sportsmen. If we wish to continue our sport from year to year this is very essential.

The planting of a food that will take care of our game birds will be discussed.

O. B. ARNETT, Pres.
Geo. S. OWSLEY, Sec.

Grant Egelston and Robert Little, of Frenchburg, were in town Sunday.

BACK TO ECONOMY

Reorganization of the mechanism of state government so as to effect economy of operation without impaired efficiency, is the task which Governor Chandler has delegated to that group of Kentuckians whose services he has commanded for the Advisory Commission he recently designated.

There should be general approval of the fact that the first concern of the new administration is to find out how little money the state government can be operated on before thought is given to raising the revenue. After a sincere effort has been made to eliminate such waste as is disclosed, after the payroll has been pruned as closely as appears prudent, after the cost of government has been debated, then it will be possible to determine how much revenue must be raised in order to balance the state budget. Such is the course which the new Governor has charted.

Every thoughtful citizen realizes that it will be necessary for the forthcoming legislature, under guidance of the Governor, to impose tax levies to replace the income which for the last two years has been produced by the sales tax. Revenue must be raised to finance all essential agencies of state government on a plane of prudent economy. It will be necessary, to finance a modest program of old age pensions.

After the government has been reorganized on the bedrock of economical operation, the citizenship should not object to paying such taxes as are necessary to maintain those administrative agencies which are for the welfare of all the people. Governor Chandler has given assurance that such tax measures as are enacted will be equitable and fair, that no effort will be made to coerce the General Assembly.

And those who besiege the Governor for jobs should ponder the wisdom in his statement that "the job I have to do is more important than any job I have to give." The citizens whose servant the Governor is, should respect his request that he not be besieged by those seeking jobs or those asking an audience with him on matters that may be deferred until the pressing responsibilities of the legislative session have been discharged.

BUSINESS CHANGES

L. L. Williams has deeded his store and residence building to his wife, who with the help of Miss Zephia Graham will hereafter conduct the business under the name of Margaret Williams.

Mr. Williams is a supersalesman, knows not only goods but also the psychology of salesmanship, and he has accepted a position as traveling salesman for a Louisville and St. Louis company for Kentucky, Ohio, and West Virginia. He will retain his headquarters at West Liberty and keep in touch with his friends.

The community wishes the highest possible success to Mrs. Williams and Miss Graham and awaits the return of Mr. Williams when he has made a success of his greater venture.

Revealed by Census

Half the population of the United States lives in two hundred of the three thousand counties in this country, census figures show. These two hundred counties contain over three fourths of the wage jobs of American manufacturers, says Dr. Daniel B. Creamer of the study of population redistribution.

SCHEDULE OF SERVICES

M. E. CHURCH SOUTH
First Sunday: West Liberty 11 a.m.
Cannel City 6 p.m.
Second Sunday: Goodwin Chapel 11 a.m.
Cannel City 2:30 p.m.
West Liberty 7 p.m.
Third Sunday: West Liberty 11 a.m.
Cannel City 6 p.m.
Fourth Sunday: Cannel City 11 a.m.
Goodwin Chapel 2:30 p.m.
West Liberty 7 p.m.
Young people's division, West Liberty, every Sunday at 6:15 p.m.
A cordial invitation is extended to you to attend these services.
REV. CLYDE BOGGS

BAPTIST CHURCH

Prayer meeting and song service at 7 o'clock every Thursday night. Sunday school at 10 o'clock a.m. Church services immediately after Sunday school and also at 7 p.m. every Sunday.
Lord's Supper the first Sunday night in each month.
Everybody is invited to attend these services, "Not forsaking the assembling of yourselves together."
ROSCOE BRONG, pastor

LEAVES THIS LIFE

Mrs. Ivory Whitt was the daughter of Marida Whitt, deceased, and Eske Whitt. She was born in Morgan Co., Ky., March 26, 1906. She was married to Arthur Whitt, June 27, 1924. To this union were born six children; four of whom survive: Nelma Jean, Myrvel Bernard, Leatha Dell, and Virginia Ruth. She is also survived by her husband, her mother, and nine brothers and sisters; namely, Wallace of Morehead, Cynthia Buskirk of Ashland, Stanley of Idaho, McKinley, Ray, Revis, Goldie Lewis, Reba Grose and Della Cramer all of Lillybrook, W. Va.

She departed this life Jan. 8, 1936. All the days of her life consisted of 29 years, 9 months and 13 days. In passing she said she was trusting in the Lord.

Funeral services were conducted at the Wrigley schoolhouse Friday morning, Jan. 10, by John Haycoorn, Roscoe Brong, and Everett Todd. Burial was in the Roberson cemetery at Yocum.

BROWN

Franklin Morris Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Brown of Wells Hill died at the Paintsville hospital on January 9, aged 34 years. Mr. Brown had not been well for about two years and had been taken to the hospital in the hope of doing something to restore him to health, but without avail.

Mr. Brown was married in 1927 to Lizzie May, who, with two children, Wendell Henry and Betty Fay survive. His parents and five brothers—Robert Henry, Mansfield, Ill., Lacy, Liberty Road, Willie at West Liberty and Bernard and Junior at home also survive.

Funeral services were conducted by Ernest Gross and Zach Haney at Wells Hill church on Saturday January 11 and burial in the Neal Cemetery.

McGLOTHEN

Carl McGlothen was born Dec. 31, 1894; died Jan. 12, 1936. Mr. McGlothen was on the highway about two miles west of Frenchburg on Sunday morning when a car ran over him, crushing his head and mutilating his body. He lived about two miles from where he was killed. The occupants of the car rushed on, but friends who lived near by picked up the mangled body and notified his folks.

Funeral services were held at the family cemetery near Frenchburg at 1 p.m. Monday, Rev. J. S. Rhodes officiating.

Mr. McGlothen's wife preceded him in death seven years ago and he was making his home with his parents. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. George Brown, Frenchburg, and Miss Olive McGlothen, at home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George McGlothen, near Frenchburg; one brother, Russel McGlothen, near Frenchburg; and other relatives and friends.

yestidy wuz paws birthday so maw hed hot biskits fer supper.
how air tha biskits paw—sez she, wal—sez paw—they aint bad but i wisht yew kud bak tha kind mi muther usta mak, them wuz biskits —sezze.
kum in muther perkins—sez maw openin tha kitchen door.
bein as its yer birthday—sez she— i hed yer muther over tew bak tha biskits.
yew shudda seen paws face when biz muther kum in.
lets tli them fresh wuns—sezze recchin fer wun off tother plate, um— sezze—these air much better, imusta got a hadone.
thets funny—sez maw—them on thet plate is tha ones i bakt.
paw jist started tew drink sum hot koffee en i thot he'd strangle tew deth.
i saw gramma perkins wink et maw but ill bet paw'll appreshate maws kookin a lot more hereafter.
HANK

CAUGHT IN THE WILD

By ROBERT AMES BENNET

Copyright by Robert Ames Bennet

WNU Service

CHAPTER VII—Continued

Mr. Ramill had reacted in his own way. His temporary friendliness had disappeared. He was again the bland, adroit investor in mines who so generously presented worthy prospects with a thousand, and in return took over claims worth many thousands. Huxley of course had been a hopeless case. But Garth had fancied there were possibilities in the older pirate. Lillith Ramill, however, was the real disappointment. Though she had done nothing, so far as Garth could tell, to disprove her declared hatred of him, she had seemed more and more to show a spirit of fair play. It had led him into thinking she possessed a true spirit of sportsmanship.

Yet now the girl avoided looking at him. Occasionally she gazed rather hard at her fiancé and murmured about the hotel at Edmont. But for the most part she sat in moody silence. The grease that dulled the brilliant blue diamond of her engagement ring seemed to annoy her. She rubbed it with a bit of dry moss, between bites at her meat.

By the time Garth finished his own half-spiced meat, he managed also to swallow his bitterness. After all, what else could he have expected? The girl was the daughter of Burton Ramill—the selfish spoiled daughter of an unscrupulous business sharper. He broke in upon her rubbing of the begrimmed diamond: "May I ask you for the salt and tea bags, Miss Ramill? They're as good as empty, I see. But I can refill them for my return to the valley."

She stared at him wide-eyed. "Valley? You're going back there?" "To be sure. Why not? You can't suppose I'll abandon all that million in my platinum placer."

Huxley's face had gone blank. His eagle eyes stared with all their cold fanaticism. But Mr. Ramill chuckled. "Of course, my dear—the placer. He will be going back to his placer next spring."

The girl did not turn her astonished gaze away from Garth. "Dad does not understand. I do. You mean new? You planned it from the first. All that caribou meat and—"

"Good guess," he broke in. "It has taken a bit longer than I expected to get you out. But in my light birch bark, I fancy I can make the head of canoe water before the freeze-up. After that, frost and snow will make no difference. I'll have a pair of web-snowshoes."

The millionaire spoke in place of his wild-eyed daughter: "But, man, the cold!"

Garth smiled. "Have you forgotten I told you that I wintered with the Eskimos at Coronation Gulf?"

"They have dog teams."

"Some of those teams were reared from wolf pups. I might experiment. There are several wolf families in the valley."

"You're stark mad! If you think you can—"

Mr. Ramill paused. He listened to what Huxley was muttering in his ear. His frown smoothed out, and he again favored Garth with the smile that did not go up as high as his shrewd eyes.

"Oh, well, my boy, if you're bound to risk your life in foolhardy adventuring, that's of course none of our business."

"Quite so," Garth agreed. "If our sixty-four deal had not fallen through, it would have been your business to do the legal assessment work on the claim. But as things stand, I may as well put in the winter doing the work myself. The metal I shed out with my wolf team should pay enough to buy me a fair-sized freight plane."

The millionaire beamed. "Yes—a true!"

Garth smiled back at him. "By the way, I meant to let you discover for yourselves at Fort Smith the happy surprise I've had all along for you. But since you're so pleased already over my prospects, I'll let you into the secret right now."

"Secret—at Fort Smith?"

"Yes. I forwarded my papers by the southbound Bellanca before I had the pleasure of meeting you and Miss Ramill. My claim has been on record for the past four weeks or so."

Huxley glared with a sudden change from gloating to cold rage: "You lie! You were going out in your canoe."

He was on his feet almost as soon as Garth. His fists swung in blows driven by all the force of his furious anger. Garth side-stepped both, and clipped in a hook to the jaw. Huxley dropped as if hit by a sledge. Yet it was not a complete knockout. After three or four seconds, he sat up, blinking like a dazed owl, and rubbing the flattened ear of beard on his jaw.

Garth had stepped back. He said: "Apologize, or get up and take what is coming to you."

Huxley stopped blinking. The dazed cleared from his eyes. They took on their usual calculating look. He felt again at his sore jaw, and replied with cold deliberation: "I withdraw the term."

Arrogant as was the tone, the words were an unqualified apology. Garth turned to Lillith, who stood gazing at him with a peculiar hard glow in her blue eyes. He spoke as if nothing had happened:

"Some of the ashes are now cool enough for you to use, Miss Ramill. Rub them on as a mud paste till the potash cuts the grease, then scour with sand, and rinse. Better take your ashes in the blanket, and use it for protection while you do your laundering. The skeets and bulldog flies are swarming. You'll find a bit of sand beach just under that clump of spruce."

Without a word of thanks, she dragged the blanket to the edge of the nearest outburst fire and began brushing the fluffy gray wood ashes upon it with a spruce spray. Her father had been gazing thoughtfully at Garth. He took up his empty foxskin bag.

"Come on, Vivian. This is washday. Take Lillith's bag and get your potash."

The wolfskin knapsack, with its platinum alloy treasure, had been left attached to the mooring line of the canoe. There was no bag for Garth. He made one by opening the front of his buckskin shirt and hand-laddling wood ashes inside.

Lillith went over beyond the spruce thicket with her blanket-bagged ashes. Garth led Mr. Ramill and Huxley to the strip of sand below the beached canoe. There he showed them how to cheat the buzzing insect pests. Instead of stripping for his laundry work, he muddled his ashes and plastered the paste all over his body and on the inside and outside of his clothes.

He rubbed in the mess and gave the weak solution of potash lye time to act. After that came the rinsing. He waded out and sat down in the water up to his neck. Thus protected from the swarms of stingers, he stripped off one garment at a time, washed it clean of ashes, and tossed it upon the edge of the beach. Before coming out, he took a luxurious swim in the clear river water.

First Ramill and then Huxley rather gingerly copied Garth's method. Like

With swift, purposeful movements, he rubbed the fat on the rusty pistol and began working the mechanism. It jammed repeatedly. But as the sun-dried fat soaked the rust, the action became normal.

Still quick yet unburied, he loaded the clip into the hollow butt and slid back the outer barrel to throw a cartridge into the breech.

As was of course to be expected Lillith Ramill had not returned from her own dip and wood-ashes laundering. Garth sat down beside the tin cup and little aluminum pot to mend a rip in the left leg of his buckskin trousers.

Still in a friendly mood, but with shrewd calculation in his eyes, Mr. Ramill stretched out on his back in the long grass beside Garth.

"Well, young man, it appears that the game is played out. The joke on us is that you had the cards stacked. A cold deck, and no stakes up."

Garth differed: "Why not put it according to the facts, sir? I offered a square deal—a straight business proposition. The placer was in on that. Had I not sent out my papers for record, I would have had no legal claim to offer in my bargaining."

"Why—er— But when I refused your terms, and you refused mine, you offered me a preferred to play out the game."

"My game," Garth qualified, "not yours. It was you and Huxley who thought you had the cards stacked to win. You fancied it a sure-thing gamble."

"But—your game? You had the placer clinched. Why not have said so at once, or at least there as you laid out your terms? As for my daughter, I might have accepted your terms. At least we could have flown out together, instead of going through all these weeks of privation and hardship."

The last words won an amused glance from Garth.

"Hardship—privation? You must know several fellow millionaires who call it prime sport to spend a month in the bush."

"Sport?"

"Oh, well, if you can't see that side of it, just recall yourself as you were when I had to hoist you out of the monoplane cabin."

That held the millionaire for a long moment. Then—

"Admitting how much I've benefited from your health cure, Doctor Garth, your methods have done my future son-in-law no good. As for my daughter, to drag a delicately nurtured lady into the dirt and privations and dangers of your raw wilds—"

"Delicate?" Garth cut in. "Do you know of anyone more hard? The point in her case is that she was only a brittle, harsh alloy. Now she's at least partly tempered into true steel. I had hopes of still better results from the both of you. But hate and treachery blacken the blood."

At the bitter statement, the millionaire flushed with anger. He started to turn over on his side to frown at Garth. The movement drew Garth's glance. Above a clump of wild currants, less than ten paces distant, he glimpsed the top of Huxley's hat and the end of his muzzle of the automatic.

As Garth ducked forward on his face, the shot, Mr. Ramill jerked up on his elbow. The long grass had hidden him. Huxley could not have known that his partner was lying so close beside Garth.

In the excitement of the moment, he must have thought he had missed his mark. Huxley had been bounding up again. He instantly pulled the trigger a second time. Knocked over by the shock of the bullet, the millionaire sprawled across the flaccid body of Garth.

Even as the roar of the second shot dimmed in his ears, the killer saw what he had done. The pistol dropped from his paralyzed hand. He stiffened erect on his knees to glare at that up-ermost body. It did not move.

Before he could recover his wits, Lillith burst screaming from the spruce thicket. Half clad, wet hair flying, she dashed forward to fling herself down on her bare knees beside her father. Under the partly washed off coat of mosquito gray, his face was the same sallow gray as Garth's.

She looked up, her eyes black with horror. Huxley had risen to his feet. He was advancing, once more cool. She flung out a forbidding hand.

"Stop! Keep away! You—murderer!"

His lips tightened. "You're mad, darling—clear off your head. I shot to save your father, not at him. No, listen—you must listen to me! The danger with the knife—had him down. My first shot he dodged. I thought I missed. Your father sprang up just as I fired again. It's the truth."

"Truth!" she cried—"truth! You've killed them—both!"

A great shuddering seized her—shook her like a fit of ague. Almost swooning, she sagged forward on the body of her father.

Huxley advanced with wary quickness. But at sight of the two men he had shot, he thrust his coat-bidden him, both wound up with a swim. Neither, however, ventured far out into the vast slow flood of the Mackenzie.

The others ended their bathing before Garth. He tread water to watch them. Both had wrung out their clothes and hung them well up the beach. The moment they splattered ashore, the waiting swarms of blood-suckers buzzed to the feast.

Huxley cursed, snatched up his half-dry rags, and dashed back in, to dress under water. Mr. Ramill, however, had no desire to put on wet clothes. He beat at the zipping pests with his tattered union suit. It enabled him to get into the leather trousers and coat without being stung more than half a hundred times.

Garth's mirth was mixed with admiration for the mine investor's nerve. Along with this he felt a glow of satisfaction over the results of what his rigorous training had done for the once-soft millionaire. Though still heavy-set, the portly gentleman had become something of an athlete in appearance. His brawny muscles had been hardened; his loose joints were now firm. His paunch had disappeared. He was lean about the waist and hips, and full-chested.

"My word, sir," Garth sang out, "you look fit for the football squad. That should be worth more to you than a dozen platinum claims. At least, you might toss me my buckskins."

Malowered by the bath and swim to a temporary return of friendliness, the millionaire chuckled and came down the beach to fling the sodden garments out to their owner. His loitering afterwards may have been for Huxley. Yet he went back to the dead fire with Garth, when the engineer muttered something about having dropped his penknife.

As the two disappeared over the top of the ice-gouged bank, Huxley sprang to open the wolfskin knapsack. From it he snatched out a piece of rancid bear-cub fat, a clip of pistol cartridge, and his "lost" automatic.

Garth side-stepped both, and clipped in a hook to the jaw. Huxley dropped as if hit by a sledge. Yet it was not a complete knockout. After three or four seconds, he sat up, blinking like a dazed owl, and rubbing the flattened ear of beard on his jaw.

Garth had stepped back. He said: "Apologize, or get up and take what is coming to you."

Huxley stopped blinking. The dazed cleared from his eyes. They took on their usual calculating look. He felt again at his sore jaw, and replied with cold deliberation: "I withdraw the term."

Arrogant as was the tone, the words were an unqualified apology. Garth turned to Lillith, who stood gazing at him with a peculiar hard glow in her blue eyes. He spoke as if nothing had happened:

"Some of the ashes are now cool enough for you to use, Miss Ramill. Rub them on as a mud paste till the potash cuts the grease, then scour with sand, and rinse. Better take your ashes in the blanket, and use it for protection while you do your laundering. The skeets and bulldog flies are swarming. You'll find a bit of sand beach just under that clump of spruce."

Without a word of thanks, she dragged the blanket to the edge of the nearest outburst fire and began brushing the fluffy gray wood ashes upon it with a spruce spray. Her father had been gazing thoughtfully at Garth. He took up his empty foxskin bag.

"Come on, Vivian. This is washday. Take Lillith's bag and get your potash."

The wolfskin knapsack, with its platinum alloy treasure, had been left attached to the mooring line of the canoe. There was no bag for Garth. He made one by opening the front of his buckskin shirt and hand-laddling wood ashes inside.

Lillith went over beyond the spruce thicket with her blanket-bagged ashes. Garth led Mr. Ramill and Huxley to the strip of sand below the beached canoe. There he showed them how to cheat the buzzing insect pests. Instead of stripping for his laundry work, he muddled his ashes and plastered the paste all over his body and on the inside and outside of his clothes.

He rubbed in the mess and gave the weak solution of potash lye time to act. After that came the rinsing. He waded out and sat down in the water up to his neck. Thus protected from the swarms of stingers, he stripped off one garment at a time, washed it clean of ashes, and tossed it upon the edge of the beach. Before coming out, he took a luxurious swim in the clear river water.

First Ramill and then Huxley rather gingerly copied Garth's method. Like

With swift, purposeful movements, he rubbed the fat on the rusty pistol and began working the mechanism. It jammed repeatedly. But as the sun-dried fat soaked the rust, the action became normal.

Still quick yet unburied, he loaded the clip into the hollow butt and slid back the outer barrel to throw a cartridge into the breech.

As was of course to be expected Lillith Ramill had not returned from her own dip and wood-ashes laundering. Garth sat down beside the tin cup and little aluminum pot to mend a rip in the left leg of his buckskin trousers.

Still in a friendly mood, but with shrewd calculation in his eyes, Mr. Ramill stretched out on his back in the long grass beside Garth.

"Well, young man, it appears that the game is played out. The joke on us is that you had the cards stacked. A cold deck, and no stakes up."

Garth differed: "Why not put it according to the facts, sir? I offered a square deal—a straight business proposition. The placer was in on that. Had I not sent out my papers for record, I would have had no legal claim to offer in my bargaining."

"Why—er— But when I refused your terms, and you refused mine, you offered me a preferred to play out the game."

"My game," Garth qualified, "not yours. It was you and Huxley who thought you had the cards stacked to win. You fancied it a sure-thing gamble."

"But—your game? You had the placer clinched. Why not have said so at once, or at least there as you laid out your terms? As for my daughter, I might have accepted your terms. At least we could have flown out together, instead of going through all these weeks of privation and hardship."

The last words won an amused glance from Garth.

"Hardship—privation? You must know several fellow millionaires who call it prime sport to spend a month in the bush."

"Sport?"

"Oh, well, if you can't see that side of it, just recall yourself as you were when I had to hoist you out of the monoplane cabin."

That held the millionaire for a long moment. Then—

"Admitting how much I've benefited from your health cure, Doctor Garth, your methods have done my future son-in-law no good. As for my daughter, to drag a delicately nurtured lady into the dirt and privations and dangers of your raw wilds—"

"Delicate?" Garth cut in. "Do you know of anyone more hard? The point in her case is that she was only a brittle, harsh alloy. Now she's at least partly tempered into true steel. I had hopes of still better results from the both of you. But hate and treachery blacken the blood."

At the bitter statement, the millionaire flushed with anger. He started to turn over on his side to frown at Garth. The movement drew Garth's glance. Above a clump of wild currants, less than ten paces distant, he glimpsed the top of Huxley's hat and the end of his muzzle of the automatic.

As Garth ducked forward on his face, the shot, Mr. Ramill jerked up on his elbow. The long grass had hidden him. Huxley could not have known that his partner was lying so close beside Garth.

In the excitement of the moment, he must have thought he had missed his mark. Huxley had been bounding up again. He instantly pulled the trigger a second time. Knocked over by the shock of the bullet, the millionaire sprawled across the flaccid body of Garth.

Even as the roar of the second shot dimmed in his ears, the killer saw what he had done. The pistol dropped from his paralyzed hand. He stiffened erect on his knees to glare at that up-ermost body. It did not move.

Before he could recover his wits, Lillith burst screaming from the spruce thicket. Half clad, wet hair flying, she dashed forward to fling herself down on her bare knees beside her father. Under the partly washed off coat of mosquito gray, his face was the same sallow gray as Garth's.

She looked up, her eyes black with horror. Huxley had risen to his feet. He was advancing, once more cool. She flung out a forbidding hand.

"Stop! Keep away! You—murderer!"

His lips tightened. "You're mad, darling—clear off your head. I shot to save your father, not at him. No, listen—you must listen to me! The danger with the knife—had him down. My first shot he dodged. I thought I missed. Your father sprang up just as I fired again. It's the truth."

"Truth!" she cried—"truth! You've killed them—both!"

A great shuddering seized her—shook her like a fit of ague. Almost swooning, she sagged forward on the body of her father.

Huxley advanced with wary quickness. But at sight of the two men he had shot, he thrust his coat-bidden him, both wound up with a swim. Neither, however, ventured far out into the vast slow flood of the Mackenzie.

The others ended their bathing before Garth. He tread water to watch them. Both had wrung out their clothes and hung them well up the beach. The moment they splattered ashore, the waiting swarms of blood-suckers buzzed to the feast.

Huxley cursed, snatched up his half-dry rags, and dashed back in, to dress under water. Mr. Ramill, however, had no desire to put on wet clothes. He beat at the zipping pests with his tattered union suit. It enabled him to get into the leather trousers and coat without being stung more than half a hundred times.

Garth's mirth was mixed with admiration for the mine investor's nerve. Along with this he felt a glow of satisfaction over the results of what his rigorous training had done for the once-soft millionaire. Though still heavy-set, the portly gentleman had become something of an athlete in appearance. His brawny muscles had been hardened; his loose joints were now firm. His paunch had disappeared. He was lean about the waist and hips, and full-chested.

"My word, sir," Garth sang out, "you look fit for the football squad. That should be worth more to you than a dozen platinum claims. At least, you might toss me my buckskins."

Malowered by the bath and swim to a temporary return of friendliness, the millionaire chuckled and came down the beach to fling the sodden garments out to their owner. His loitering afterwards may have been for Huxley. Yet he went back to the dead fire with Garth, when the engineer muttered something about having dropped his penknife.

As the two disappeared over the top of the ice-gouged bank, Huxley sprang to open the wolfskin knapsack. From it he snatched out a piece of rancid bear-cub fat, a clip of pistol cartridge, and his "lost" automatic.

Garth side-stepped both, and clipped in a hook to the jaw. Huxley dropped as if hit by a sledge. Yet it was not a complete knockout. After three or four seconds, he sat up, blinking like a dazed owl, and rubbing the flattened ear of beard on his jaw.

Garth had stepped back. He said: "Apologize, or get up and take what is coming to you."

Huxley stopped blinking. The dazed cleared from his eyes. They took on their usual calculating look. He felt again at his sore jaw, and replied with cold deliberation: "I withdraw the term."

Arrogant as was the tone, the words were an unqualified apology. Garth turned to Lillith, who stood gazing at him with a peculiar hard glow in her blue eyes. He spoke as if nothing had happened:

"Some of the ashes are now cool enough for you to use, Miss Ramill. Rub them on as a mud paste till the potash cuts the grease, then scour with sand, and rinse. Better take your ashes in the blanket, and use it for protection while you do your laundering. The skeets and bulldog flies are swarming. You'll find a bit of sand beach just under that clump of spruce."

Without a word of thanks, she dragged the blanket to the edge of the nearest outburst fire and began brushing the fluffy gray wood ashes upon it with a spruce spray. Her father had been gazing thoughtfully at Garth. He took up his empty foxskin bag.

"Come on, Vivian. This is washday. Take Lillith's bag and get your potash."

The wolfskin knapsack, with its platinum alloy treasure, had been left attached to the mooring line of the canoe. There was no bag for Garth. He made one by opening the front of his buckskin shirt and hand-laddling wood ashes inside.

Lillith went over beyond the spruce thicket with her blanket-bagged ashes. Garth led Mr. Ramill and Huxley to the strip of sand below the beached canoe. There he showed them how to cheat the buzzing insect pests. Instead of stripping for his laundry work, he muddled his ashes and plastered the paste all over his body and on the inside and outside of his clothes.

He rubbed in the mess and gave the weak solution of potash lye time to act. After that came the rinsing. He waded out and sat down in the water up to his neck. Thus protected from the swarms of stingers, he stripped off one garment at a time, washed it clean of ashes, and tossed it upon the edge of the beach. Before coming out, he took a luxurious swim in the clear river water.

First Ramill and then Huxley rather gingerly copied Garth's method. Like

With swift, purposeful movements, he rubbed the fat on the rusty pistol and began working the mechanism. It jammed repeatedly. But as the sun-dried fat soaked the rust, the action became normal.

Still quick yet unburied, he loaded the clip into the hollow butt and slid back the outer barrel to throw a cartridge into the breech.

As was of course to be expected Lillith Ramill had not returned from her own dip and wood-ashes laundering. Garth sat down beside the tin cup and little aluminum pot to mend a rip in the left leg of his buckskin trousers.

Still in a friendly mood, but with shrewd calculation in his eyes, Mr. Ramill stretched out on his back in the long grass beside Garth.

"Well, young man, it appears that the game is played out. The joke on us is that you had the cards stacked. A cold deck, and no stakes up."

Garth differed: "Why not put it according to the facts, sir? I offered a square deal—a straight business proposition. The placer was in on that. Had I not sent out my papers for record, I would have had no legal claim to offer in my bargaining."

"Why—er— But when I refused your terms, and you refused mine, you offered me a preferred to play out the game."

"My game," Garth qualified, "not yours. It was you and Huxley who thought you had the cards stacked to win. You fancied it a sure-thing gamble."

"But—your game? You had the placer clinched. Why not have said so at once, or at least there as you laid out your terms? As for my daughter, I might have accepted your terms. At least we could have flown out together, instead of going through all these weeks of privation and hardship."

The last words won an amused glance from Garth.

"Hardship—privation? You must know several fellow millionaires who call it prime sport to spend a month in the bush."

"Sport?"

"Oh, well, if you can't see that side of it, just recall yourself as you were when I had to hoist you out of the monoplane cabin."

That held the millionaire for a long moment. Then—

"Admitting how much I've benefited from your health cure, Doctor Garth, your methods have done my future son-in-law no good. As for my daughter, to drag a delicately nurtured lady into the dirt and privations and dangers of your raw wilds—"

"Delicate?" Garth cut in. "Do you know of anyone more hard? The point in her case is that she was only a brittle, harsh alloy. Now she's at least partly tempered into true steel. I had hopes of still better results from the both of you. But hate and treachery blacken the blood."

At the bitter statement, the millionaire flushed with anger. He started to turn over on his side to frown at Garth. The movement drew Garth's glance. Above a clump of wild currants, less than ten paces distant, he glimpsed the top of Huxley's hat and the end of his muzzle of the automatic.

As Garth ducked forward on his face, the shot, Mr. Ramill jerked up on his elbow. The long grass had hidden him. Huxley could not have known that his partner was lying so close beside Garth.

In the excitement of the moment, he must have thought he had missed his mark. Huxley had been bounding up again. He instantly pulled the trigger a second time. Knocked over by the shock of the bullet, the millionaire sprawled across the flaccid body of Garth.

Even as the roar of the second shot dimmed in his ears, the killer saw what he had done. The pistol dropped from his paralyzed hand. He stiffened erect on his knees to glare at that up-ermost body. It did not move.

Before he could recover his wits, Lillith burst screaming from the spruce thicket. Half clad, wet hair flying, she dashed forward to fling herself down on her bare knees beside her father. Under the partly washed off coat of mosquito gray, his face was the same sallow gray as Garth's.

She looked up, her eyes black with horror. Huxley had risen to his feet. He was advancing, once more cool. She flung out a forbidding hand.

"Stop! Keep away! You—murderer!"

His lips tightened. "You're mad, darling—clear off your head. I shot to save your father, not at him. No, listen—you must listen to me! The danger with the knife—had him down. My first shot he dodged. I thought I missed. Your father sprang up just as I fired again. It's the truth."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY School Lesson

By REV. F. B. FITZWATER, D. D.,
Member of Faculty, Moody Bible
Institute of Chicago,
© Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for January 19

JESUS PREPARES FOR HIS WORK

LESSON TEXT—Luke 3:21, 22; 4:1-13.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve.—Luke 4:8.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When Jesus Grew Up.

JUNIOR TOPIC—When Jesus was Tempted.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR
TOPIC—Making a Right Start for Life.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT
TOPIC—Finding God's Way for Life.

The statement of the subject of this lesson is not quite satisfactory. His baptism and temptation were not means of preparation, but were respectively his formal entrance upon his work and the first conflict with the devil, whose works he came to destroy.

1. Jesus Entering Upon His Mediatorial Work (Luke 3:21, 22).

1. His baptism (v. 21). In his baptism we see the symbolic act of Jesus dedicating himself to the work of redemption through the cross, or the act of consecration on his part to the work of saving the world through his death and resurrection. His baptism did not mean his obedience to the law of God, but his entrance upon the sacrificial work which on the cross of Calvary made a real foundation for full righteousness.

2. His anointing (v. 22). As he thus dedicated himself to the task of bringing in a righteousness, he was anointed with the Holy Spirit.

3. The heavenly recognition (v. 22). This act of devotion to the divine will was attended by the declaration of divine approval. "Thou art my beloved Son; in thee I am well pleased."

II. Jesus' First Conflict With the Devil (Luke 4:1-13).

Jesus went from the place of anointing and heavenly recognition as the Son of God to meet and to spoil the arch enemy (Heb. 2:14). Instead of the temptation, therefore, being a preparation for his messianic work, it was a demonstration of the inseparableness of the divine and human natures in the incarnation. It is to be noted that the Holy Spirit, not Satan, led Jesus into the wilderness to be tempted.

1. The place (v. 1). It was in the wilderness of Judea. The first man, Adam, was tempted in a garden, with the most pleasant surroundings. The second man, Jesus Christ, was tempted in a barren wilderness, surrounded by wild beasts (Mark 1:13).

2. The method (v. 2). Christ as the world's Redeemer sustained a threefold relationship: the Son of man, the Messiah, and the Son of God. Therefore, Satan made each one a ground of attack.

a. As Son of man (vv. 2-4). Satan made his first assault upon Jesus as a man by appealing to the instinct of hunger. Satan urged him to use his divine power to convert a stone into bread. Hunger is natural and sinless. Real human life experiences hunger. The appetite of hunger was normal and right. The temptation was to satisfy a right hunger in a wrong way. To have yielded in this case, though his hunger was desperate, would have been to renounce the human limitations which he had taken for our sins. To use divine power to satisfy human needs would have been to fail as Savior and Mediator. To do right in a wrong way is to fail.

b. As Messiah (vv. 5-8). Here the temptation was to grasp his rightful dominion by false means. The devil offered to surrender unto him the world, if he would adopt his method—worship him. The force of this temptation was in the fact that the kingdoms of the world are Christ's by God's covenant with him. God's method by which Jesus was to possess the world was the sacrificial death on the cross. The temptation which Satan is placing upon the church today is to get possession of the world by other means than that of the cross.

c. As Son of God (vv. 9-12). Here Satan tries to induce Christ to presume upon God's care. He quotes a messianic psalm to induce him so to act. To do the spectacular thing in order to get publicity is to fall into Satan's temptation. For Jesus to have placed himself in danger in order to get God's special help in delivering him would have been to sin. To test God as to whether he will keep a promise is the greatest distrust; it is to sin and fail.

d. Christ's defense (vv. 4, 8, 12). It was the Word of God. He met every onslaught of the enemy with "It is written." Our defense is God's Word. May every Sunday School teacher and believer know how to use it.

e. The issue (v. 13). Satan was vanquished. If we but trust God and use his Word, we too can overcome the devil.

Burdens

Bear your burden manfully. Boys at school, young men who have exchanged boyish liberty for serious business—all who have got a task to do, a work to finish—bear the burden till God gives the signal for repose—till the work is done, and the holiday is fairly earned.

The Best Way

Choose always the way that seems the best, however rough it may be. Custom will render it easy and agreeable.—Pythagoras

OUR COMIC SECTION

Events in the Lives of Little Men

(Copyright, W. N. U.)

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

By Ted O'Loughlin
© By Western Newspaper Union

To Remember Him

THE FEATHERHEADS

By Osborne
© Western Newspaper Union

Biting Humor

TUCK A SMART BOW BENEATH THE CHIN

PATTERN 9601

Surely no Junior Miss can resist the girlishness of this smart two-piece frock. Practical for school in a washable cotton tweed, or dressy enough for an evening date in one of the new metallic-soft woolsens, with velveteen bow and belt. Isn't the cut of the shoulder line unusual? The blouse, with darts front and back, is separate, you know, so its pleated skirt may accompany many different blouses.

Pattern 9601 may be ordered only in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 12 requires 2½ yards 54 inch fabric and ½ yard 5 inch ribbon. Complete diagrammed sew chart included. SEND FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (cents preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., 232 W. Eighth St., New York, N. Y.

AMERICA'S GUILTY CONSCIENCES HELP ENRICH TREASURY

America's guilty consciences, first officially recorded in 1811, have swelled the treasury's famed "conscience fund" to $618,233.68, officials revealed.

The first deposit was in President Madison's term, in 1811, when an unidentified person, claiming to have defrauded the government, sent in $5. Since then, contributions made in every year but 1848, have ranged from a 1-cent stamp to $39,000. The banner year was 1916 when $54,923.15 went into the public coffers.

Correspondence in the treasury's conscience fund files relates chiefly to anonymous explanations of remittances intended to lift loads from worried minds. One batch tells the tale of a drafted man in the Twenty-third Engineers who, after having paid the government $25 in conscience money, decided he wanted it back. He discovered it would take an act of congress.

The treasury officials told also of a man who sent a small remittance only to have the government discover he owed a whole lot more. The government collected in that case but normally contributions to the conscience fund are accepted without question or investigation.

The treasury has another fund composed of contributions from known donors, totaling $1,580,379.60. To this was added the $250,000 bequest of the late Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. The smallest known bequest, made in 1892, was 10 cents.

In 1883 contributions from known donors totaled $67,290.23. The war years were conspicuous for brining to the government contributions from persons desiring to help it pay its way. Requests in 1914 totaled $36,320.55. Requests have been made in every year without a break since 1913.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

GOOD LIGHT Every Night
WITH A
Coleman LANTERN

Just the light you need for every outdoor use. It's the only lantern that burns kerosene, and it's the only lantern that's so easy to use. It's the only lantern that's so reliable. It's the only lantern that's so beautiful. It's the only lantern that's so cheap. It's the only lantern that's so good.

SEE YOUR LOCAL DEALER—or write
THE COLEMAN LAMP AND STOVE CO.,
Dept. W. N. U., Chicago, Ill. 1. Los Angeles, Calif.
Chicago, Ill. 1. Philadelphia, Pa.

Belief Is Influence in Direction of One's Life

The forces that impel action reside in our environment. The threats and convictions that guide it are hidden in the mind and heart. A man moves slowly or swiftly, he does his work slowly or swiftly, according to the energy that is in him. But the direction of his life, this way or that way, follows the unseen influence of what he admires and loves and believes in.—Henry Van Dyke

Smiles

The Family Skeleton
"Did you tell the Lord about your being so bad and ask his forgiveness?" inquired the mother as she opened the closet door.

"No," responded the little girl with determination. "I didn't think you would want such a scandal known outside the family."—Pathfinder.

What a Bird!
Customer—I would like that parrot. But can it talk?
Dealer—Talk! Why it flew from Paraguay to Stockholm, asking its own way all the time.—Stockholm Vart Hem.

Wise Guy
Mrs. Gassaway—So your husband has been deceiving you, has he?
Mrs. Gnaggs—Yes. I've been giving him a dime every day to ride to work, and now I find out that he's been walking and spending the money.—Pathfinder Magazine.

HI, THERE—HAVE YOU TRIED WRIGLEY'S LATELY?

"So your daughter is musical?"
"Yes."
"Is she going in for classical work?"
"No. Jazzical."

Not Bending Down
"Goodness! How fat Betty is getting."
"That's because she dally doesn't."

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT
THE PERFECT GUM

AIDS DIGESTION

The Courier

MEMBER
KENTUCKY PRESS ASSOCIATION
ORGANIZED JANUARY, 1889

Entered as second class matter, April 7, 1910, at the postoffice at West Liberty, Ky., under act of congress.

Subscription Price $1.50 a Year
Always in Advance

Advertising rate, 35c a column inch each insertion. Legal advertising, 50c a column inch each insertion.
Classified advertisements, 1c a word. Readers, 10c a line.

Late obituaries, cards of thanks, resolutions of respect, etc., 5c a line.

Published every Thursday by COURIER PUBLISHING COMPANY
F. S. BRONG, Editor
ROSCO BRONG, Business Manager

FARMERS' COLUMN

THE FARM AND HOME

Plenty of clean water for laying hens is considered highly important. An egg is 65 percent water. If hens do not have good water before them at all times they may not eat enough to produce the maximum number of eggs.

One acre is the minimum which may be taken out of the production in any year by a farmer who signs the 1936-39 cotton contract. Where the base acreage is not more than five acres the entire base may be taken out of production and the producer will receive advance payments on the entire five acres.

More farmers than ever before are taking inventories on their property this January. With this listing of their ownership, they will be able to know from year to year whether they are "getting ahead" or "falling behind."

Lopesoda straw is being used by many Kentucky farmers to help carry dry cows and young stock through the winter. It is not as good as legume hay, especially for cows in milk, but does fairly well for stock cattle.

Clover Leaf Rolls: Pull off small portions of light dough and shape into small balls. Place three balls in a greased muffin tin and brush with melted butter. Set pan in a warm place and let stand until the rolls double in size. Bake 15 to 20 minutes in a hot oven.

To prevent rings, in cleaning spots from clothes, clean from the wrong side. Use sparingly of the cleaning fluid, brush lightly and dry quickly. A blotter or other absorbent material should be used beneath the spot.

Mice Damage Fruit Trees

Calling fruit producers' attention to the necessity of protecting trees against mice at this time of year, when green feed is scarce, W. W. Magill, of the Kentucky College of Agriculture, says these rodents probably are the more destructive than the notorious San Jose scale.

While some persons think mice damage only young trees, Magill points out that he has seen mature trees, capable of producing 40 bu. of apples, completely girdled by mice. He mentioned a 15-acre orchard that had been almost wholly ruined by the pest.

Control of mice is by poisoned bait made of crushed oats, steam treated with strychnine and the grain then coated with paraffin. This bait is best had from the U. S. Biological Survey, Lafayette, Ind., where it may be purchased in five pound lots for about 15 cents a pound. A pound usually is sufficient to treat an acre of orchard. Similar bait may be had from commercial firms handling orchard supplies.

A spoonful or so of the poisoned bait is placed in the run-ways of the mice, or in their dens if they can be found. To keep rain from damaging the bait, it may be wrapped in waxed paper, such as comes around bread. The mice like the wax, and will eat thru the paper into the oats.

Clearing away from the trunks of the trees weeds, straw, manure and other trash helps to destroy the dens of the mice.

Wrapping tree trunks with paper will tend to prevent injury by rabbits.

LAND USE ARTICLE NO. 3

Editor's Note—The old frontiers are gone. There are no longer vast areas of new land on which a growing nation can settle and expand. It is now up to us to conserve and develop the land which we have. How it can be done is described by L. C. Gray, a author on land use, in a series of three articles, of which this is the third.

It is obvious that poor farm families, vainly trying to make a living on unproductive land, suffer from their own misfortune. It can be demonstrated, however, that these attempts to use land for purposes to which it is not suited also cost the taxpayer money.

If a farmer cannot make enough off his land to provide sufficient food and clothing for his family, there is bound to be very little money for taxes. This is evidenced by the fact that large areas of land are tax delinquent in regions where land is being misused. Poor land in farms cannot pay taxes. Idle, cut-over forest land, where fires have prevented reforestation, also produce little, if any, revenue that will pay taxes.

Yet roads and schools must be kept up wherever there are people living. Roads and schools form the major part of the expenses incurred by many rural towns and counties. Persons living on good land are forced to make up the deficit incurred by the tax delinquency on poor land.

Studies of this problem have been made by the Resettlement Administration in cooperation with several state agencies. In one place twenty-eight families were found, which cost the county about $185 per year each to transport their children to school. Each family paid an average of only $6.40 in taxes. In other words, taxpayers from other parts of the county had to take about $5,000 out of their pockets in order to carry these children to and from school. The cost of keeping up the roads and of supporting the school was in addition to this expense.

In another state, it was estimated that more than $7,000,000 was spent on relief, private charity and uncollectible loans given out during four years to farmers, most of whom lived on land that could never hope to yield them a living. Taxpayers, and the people who supported private charity, were therefore practically subsidizing these families to stay on land where they would never support themselves.

The land utilization program of the federal government is aiming at a correction of these conditions by helping these families move to good land, and by putting the poor land to some use for which it is fitted. This may be either forestry, grazing or other forms of conservation.

Taxpayers in every rural county in the United States have a deep interest in promoting a wise use of all the land in their county. Wise action may save them many thousands of dollars.

BOB JONES' COMMENTS

There is a conspiracy to rob American young people of their faith in the traditions of their country. For the last few years this conspiracy has been working in schools, colleges, and universities of this nation. College professors have raised questions in the minds of their students about our form of government and about the religion of our fathers. We should bear in mind that the "capital system" against which you hear such a tirade was operating in the days of Jesus. He did not denounce this system. He condemned the individuals who under the capital system were not doing their duty. He never once condemned the system. Jesus did not come to destroy the law, but to fulfill it. The law says "Thou shalt not covet anything that belongs to thy neighbor." Jesus did not tell the poor man to take away his neighbor's property. Jesus exhorts the man who is prosperous and who is strong to bear the infirmities of the weak. His appeal always is to the individual whether the individual be rich or poor. The "socialist gospel" which modern men are preaching is not the gospel which Jesus Christ preached. You can not save men in mass. You save them as individuals.

Young people in their conventions under the stimulating oratory of modern dreamers talk about building a new world. They say the present world in which we are living is not right. This we all have to admit. Suppose I am living in a house which is not in the best of condition. The roof leaks and there are cracks in the floor, and there are many defects about which I could complain. So, because I do not like the defects, I decide to build a new house. I go out and build a house with no leaks in the roof, and no cracks in the floor. The house is complete. It looks lovely, but the foundation is not good. The storm comes and the new house falls and the old house with its defects still stands. In our house of government there are leaks in the roof and cracks in the floor, but there is some mighty good timber in the old house. It has weathered many storms. It is built on a pretty good foundation. I recommend that we patch the roof and fix the floor and let the old house stand.

WOULD PROTECT BANKING FIELD IN RURAL AREAS

American Bankers Association Announces Purpose to Combat Return of Excessive Number of Banks

CITES LAX CHARTER POLICIES IN THE PAST Finds a Chief Cause of Bank Failures Was Too Many Banks—Existing Sound Banks Serving Communities Well

NEW YORK. — Existing sound banks, especially the small banks in the rural districts which are serving their communities well, should be protected from any return of the over-banked local conditions caused by former lax chartering policies, which were mainly to blame for the unfavorable failure record of the past, says the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association. This is brought out in a report covering an investigation by the commission of bank failures and public policies in chartering banks.

"The Commission's study gives an impressive revelation of how great a part mistaken public policies in the chartering of banks played in creating the unsound banking structure which finally collapsed with the Bank Holiday in March 1933," Robert V. Fleming, president of the association, says in a foreword.

"Over-production of banks, literally by thousands, over many years in the face of insistent warnings not only from bankers and others who recognized the danger, but even more so from the mounting records of bank failures themselves, is clearly shown to have constituted as a whole one of the greatest single economic errors in the history of the Nation."

A Recurrence Feared He refers to fears of a recurrence of over-banking recently expressed by Federal banking authorities, to the powers given the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation by the provision of the Banking Act of 1935 over the admission of banks to membership in the insurance fund, to strengthened state laws and to the policies now being followed by both national and state supervisory authorities aimed to safeguard the nation against over-banking.

"Put sound laws and conscientious officials are not of themselves always sufficient safeguard in any field of our complex national life unless they have the active support of public opinion," he adds. "It is the purpose of the American Bankers Association to make a marshaling public opinion in support of both national and state supervisory authorities in their efforts to strengthen and protect the banking structure."

The Economic Policy Commission summarizes its findings in part as follows: "The facts show a distinct causal relationship between the over-chartering of banks and the abnormal bank failure conditions that prevailed from 1920 to the bank holiday in 1933. It is desirable that studies be made on the basis of experience to develop standards governing the number of banks or the volume of bank capital which can be successfully operated."

"Such a study would embrace the question whether banking facilities can be best supplied to the rural districts by small unit banks or by branches from banks of substantial capital in larger centers. Existing sound banks, which are serving their communities well should be protected from any return of the over-banked local conditions caused in the past by lax chartering policies."

Banking Officials Queried "An inquiry among state bank commissioners shows a preponderant opinion against increasing materially the number of banks, coupled with the fact that present laws give them sufficient discretion to prevent a repetition of the grave errors of the past. "Under prevailing abnormal conditions, with the Federal Government extensively exercising loaning powers in competition with the banks, and with industry itself so largely supplied with funds as to render it to a great degree independent of normal bank borrowing, the banking structure even with its present reduced numbers, finds it difficult to support its existing capital investment and operating personnel. "These are a few factors intensifying the need for highly prudent and restrictive chartering policies. We urge the retirement of the Federal Government from the banking business as rapidly as the return of normal business conditions warrant."

Conference on Banking

NEW YORK. — An eastern states conference on banking service will be held by the American Bankers Association in Philadelphia January 23 and 24 as a part of the organization's nationwide program on banking development. It has been announced that Robert V. Fleming, president of the association, will preside over the meetings. It is stated that this conference will be the first of several to be held in various parts of the country presenting a program the details of which are now in the course of preparation.

The general topic of the conference will embrace the managerial, legislative and operative problems confronted by all classes of banks. An outstanding phase of the meetings will be the development of plans for promoting a general better public understanding in regard to bank functions and policies.

A LARGE-SIZED GRIEF

A traveling circus had arrived at a small village, and the local gossip carrier hastened out to look things over. He found three circus hands sitting in dejected silence.

"What's wrong?" asked the villager. "The elephant is dead," was the reply. "I'm sorry. But I'm glad to see you men thought so much of a dumb animal," the villager continued. "It ain't that," retorted one of the three. "You see, we chaps has got to dig the hole to bury him."—Santa Fe Magazine.

If Thrown Properly

The new maid was full of her own importance. She had worked on the continent and felt superior to the other servants.

One day she was telling "below stairs" some of her experiences. "How do the foreign dishes compare to English ones?" asked one of her audience. "Oh," replied the maid, airily, "they break just the same."—Answers Magazine.

NOT EVEN THAT

"Pa, what is an echo?" "An echo, my son, is the only thing that can cheat a woman out of the last word."

Efficiency

"Aha," said the chief clerk, "I'm glad to notice that you are arriving punctually now."

"Yes, sir. I've bought a parrot." "A parrot? What on earth for? I told you to get an alarm clock." "Yes, I did. But after a day or two I got used to it and it didn't wake me. So I got a parrot. And now when I go to bed I fix the alarm clock and put the parrot cage on top of it. What that bird says when the alarm goes off would wake up anyone."

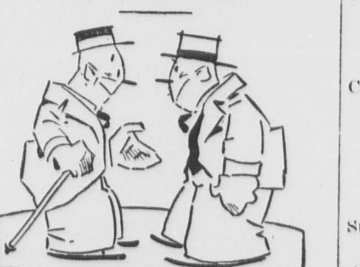

Influence

"Now, that's what I call real influence," remarked Senator Sorghum, complacently. "To what do you refer?" "I've managed to get a man who has plugged away for years at a government position a remunerative job in private life."

Like Pulling Teeth

"He's so obstinate." "In what way?" "It's the hardest thing in the world to convince him that I'm always right."—Tit-Bits Magazine.

NOT STUCK UP

"A paperhanger is never worried about his business." "Why not?" "Because he is never afraid when it goes to the wall."

Prepared for Peace

"I apologize," said one diplomat. "But you have given no offense," said the other. "I know there is no present reason for my apologizing. But I wish to be on record with an expression of willingness to do so on the slightest provocation."

So Convenient

"Oh, I'm so glad you have a brown cow, Uncle John," effused the young girl from the city looking over the stock. "Why so, my dear?" asked Uncle John.

"Because now I won't have to do without my chocolate milk while I'm visiting here."—Capper's Weekly.

Saving

"You still think a citizen ought to save money?" "Yes," said Senator Sorghum. "But if he happens to be a lobbyist he shouldn't try to salvage too much in a lump."

Those Dear Girls

Margaret—He sure is light on his feet. Stella—Yes, he's evenly balanced. He's also light in his head.—Kansas City Star.

All Set

Friend—There is talk of the next war being fought with radio. Main—Well, I'm in training. I've listened to some terrific programs during the past few months.

Young Webster

Teacher—What is the feminine of bachelor? Boy—The feminine of bachelor is lady in waiting.—Mystic Magazine.

Herd Sire Important

A healthy, registered bull displaying quality in a high degree and at the same time representing approved type for the breed selected is needed to head the grade herd being maintained for the production of beef. Although such a sire may have proved satisfactory, it becomes necessary after a few years to replace him because he has outlived his usefulness or must be removed to avoid inbreeding. Better results will then be obtained with a bull of similar blood lines, provided, of course, that he has desirable quality, scale, and conformation. This practice tends toward the production of calves of uniform type and quality. It is, therefore, an aid both in the selling of stock and in selecting heifers raised on the farm to replace the cows in the herd.—Missouri Farmer.

Ration for Dairy Cow

Each dairy cow offers a different problem and the amount of grain needed can be determined only by the milk records. In addition to all the roughage, including hay and silage, that the animal will eat she is given sufficient grain for maximum production. To determine the proper amount, according to the North Carolina State college, the grain ration should be gradually increased and the daily milk sheet carefully checked. When the milk production is no increased then the grain should be decreased. A check of both increase and decrease of grain will soon show the proper amount for profitable production.

Short Furrows

Horses and mules, for the most part, relish cottonseed meal mixed with their corn.

Marl is not a fertilizer. It is merely a soil amendment and would be useful on a field where soil was more or less acid.

Charter No. 7891 Reserve District No. 4 REPORT OF CONDITION OF THE

Morgan County National Bank
OF CANNEL CITY, IN THE STATE OF KENTUCKY, AT THE CLOSE OF BUSINESS ON DEC. 31, 1935
(Published in response to call made by Comptroller of the Currency, under Section 5211, U. S. Revised Statutes)

ASSETS
Loans and discounts	$109,221.37
Overdrafts	747.54
United States government obligations, direct and/or fully guaranteed	31,675.00
Other bonds, stocks, and securities	8,206.03
Banking house, $2,000.00. Furniture and fixtures, $700.00.	3,300.00
Real estate owned other than banking house	13,784.16
Reserve with Federal Reserve bank	12,069.06
Cash, balances with other banks, exchanges for clearing house, etc.	31,784.52
Other assets	321.47
TOTAL ASSETS	$211,109.15
LIABILITIES
Demand deposits, except United States Government deposits, public funds, and deposits of other banks	$ 66,405.06
Time deposits, except postal savings, public funds, and deposits of other banks	98,598.45
Deposits of other banks, including certified and cashier's checks outstanding	25.00
Total Deposits (secured by pledge of loans and/or investments)	$164,988.41
Capital account:
Class A preferred stock, 150 shares, par $100.00	15,000.00
Common stock, 250 shares, par $100.00 per share	$40,000.00
Undivided profits—net	6,079.74
Total Capital Account	46,079.74
TOTAL LIABILITIES	$211,109.15

State of Kentucky, County of Morgan, ss:

I, Custer Jones, President of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 9th day of January, 1936. (SEAL) My commission expires Jan. 12, 1938. EARLE HANEY, notary public Correct—Attest: Bertha J. Leslie, G. W. Leslie, Joe C. Stamper, Directors.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF THE Commercial Bank

DOING BUSINESS AT THE TOWN OF WEST LIBERTY, COUNTY OF MORGAN, STATE OF KENTUCKY, AT THE CLOSE OF BUSINESS ON 31st day of DECEMBER, 1935

RESOURCES
Loans and Discounts (including rediscounts, foreign bills, exchange, drafts, bonds sold with banks' indorsement, and mortgages in hands of trustees to secure bond issues)	$235,672.86
Securities Owned: (a) U. S. Government Securities	$81,825.00
(b) Other Bonds	20,000.00
(c) Other Securities	24,780.24
Total Items a-b-c	132,611.24
Overdrafts (unsecured)	1,286.00
Actual cash on hand and in Banks	60,647.29
Banking House	1,000.00
Furniture and Fixtures	700.00
Other Real Estate	9,532.27
Other resources not included under any of the above heads	539.35
TOTAL	$442,029.61
LIABILITIES
Capital Stock Paid In (Common)	$ 30,000.00
Surplus	12,000.00
Deposits subject to check	$177,019.85
Deposits (on which interest is paid including certificates of deposit)	221,389.03
Cashier's checks outstanding	1,020.13
Total last three above items	400,029.61
TOTAL	$442,029.61

State of Kentucky, County of Morgan, Sct.

We, Floyd Arnett and C. K. Stacy, President and Cashier of the above named Bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of our knowledge and belief.

FLOYD ARNETT, President
C. K. STACY, Cashier
Subscribed and sworn to before me this 10th day of January, 1936. My commission expires March 13, 1938. NELL COLE, Notary Public. Correct—Attest: J. D. Whiteaker, W. M. Gardner, T. J. Elam, Directors.

Children's Colds Should Have This Safe Treatment

Young Mothers Benefit from Two Generations' Proof of This External Treatment For Fighting Colds.

IT AVOIDS CONSTANT "DOSING"

There's nothing like a child's cold to upset a young mother. And mothers of two generations, anxious to help end colds, have depended on Vicks VapoRub. It is effective—external—and safe. It avoids the risks of constant "dosing," so often upsetting to children's delicate digestions. Just rubbed on throat and chest at bedtime, VapoRub acts two ways at once:

1. By stimulation through the skin, like a poultice or plaster—2. By inhalation of its penetrating medicated vapors, released by body heat and breathed in direct to inflamed air-passages. Continuing through the night, this combined vapor-poultice action loosens phlegm—soothes irritated membranes—eases difficult breathing—helps break congestion.

A Practical Guide for Mothers Each year, more and more families are being helped to fend off colds and shorter colds by Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Vicks Plan has been clinically tested by practicing physicians, and further proved in everyday home use by millions. Full details of the Plan in each package of Vicks VapoRub.

Over 100 Million Vicks Aids Used Yearly For Better Control of Colds

Help Kidneys.
If poorly functioning kidneys and bladder make you suffer from Getting Up Often, Nervousness, Rheumatism, Pains, Stiffness, Burning, Stinging, Itching, or Acidity try the guaranteed Doctor's Prescription Cystex (Blue Box). Must fix you up or money back. Only 75¢ at druggists.

SCHOOL BUILDING

The Morgan County Board of Education has appointed Hayden Lykins, Emerson Barker as the proposed new Cannel City, Crockett. It was the intention of the county board of education in collaboration with the best in their available. The Morgan County Board of Education wishes to furnish jobs for these jobs must be in the line of education. The Morgan County Board of Education wishes to furnish jobs for these jobs must be in the line of education. The Morgan County Board of Education wishes to furnish jobs for these jobs must be in the line of education.

Ninety percent of these jobs must be in the line of education. The Morgan County Board of Education wishes to furnish jobs for these jobs must be in the line of education. The Morgan County Board of Education wishes to furnish jobs for these jobs must be in the line of education. The Morgan County Board of Education wishes to furnish jobs for these jobs must be in the line of education.

FINANCIAL IN

Presented by the Ky

What would happen if the legislature failed to provide for the schools?

Answers: 1. Terms would be reduced. 2. Teachers' salaries would be cut. 3. Local taxes would be raised.

4. Schools could be closed. 5. Necessary repairs would not be made. 6. All improvements would be delayed. 7. Many teachers would be dropped.

8. Teachers could go to school for improvement. 9. Teacher morale would be lowered. 10. There would be a shortage of teachers.

What would happen if the legislature failed to provide for the schools?

Answers: 1. The number of schools would be reduced. 2. Salaries of teachers would be cut. 3. The process of raising money for schools would be delayed.

4. There would be a shortage of teachers. 5. All expansion of schools would be discontinued. 6. Thousands of children would be deprived of education.

7. Every merchant would eventually lose business. 8. The buying power of the community is in direct proportion to cultural advancement. 9. How could schools at their present level have a $12 per capita local tax?

Answer: Only by a local tax. How does Kentucky's percentage of school revenue paid for instruction?

Answer: Eleventh. (Kentucky pays more of their school instruction than Kentucky's percentage higher than that of any other state.)

How does Kentucky's local taxes on $100 value property in Kentucky compare with other states?

Answer: Kentucky ranks 32nd. There are only 16 states that give more than $100.00 more tax on the $100.00. 32 that give more of higher education.

(Under Auspices of Ova O. Haney, County Supt.)

OAK HILL SCHOOL NEWS

OAK HILL SCHOOL NEWS

After a ten days' Christmas vacation, our students returned to school Monday, Dec. 30. Our school building was well decorated with wreaths, holly, small Christmas trees, and pictures of Santa, all made by the students of the upper grades during school hours.

Some of our students visited relatives during the Christmas season. Lizzie Blair, eighth grade student, visited her sister, Mrs. Flavis Wells, of Wrigley, over Christmas. Ray Cassidy, teacher of lower grades, and Mildred Elam, eighth grade student, visited in Morehead on Wednesday to Sunday. Omadell Easterling spent Christmas day with kinfolk at Spencer Mills.

John Jones, Clifton Roberts, and Novella Roberts, all sixth grade students, have a perfect spelling record for the past month.

Our examinations for the fifth month were recently held and the following pupils did outstanding work in their grades:

- Primer: Billy Richard Callahan.
- Grade one: Blanche Collins.
- Grade two: Ruby Bowman.
- Grade three: Garnett Fultz.
- Grade four: Bernal Collins.
- Grade six: Verna Carter.

The P.T.A. program was given Friday night, Dec. 20, and was well enjoyed by the audience. Many thought the play, "The Eyes of Love," was the best ever given at Oak Hill. Members of the cast were Ray Cassidy, Mildred Elam, Morton Collins, Alta Collins, Alva Collins, Matt Carter, Martin Collins, and Dennis Easterling, with Raymond Davis and Mrs. Russle Collins playing the parts of the elderly judge and his wife. We expect to give the play at some neighboring community in the near future in order to raise some more funds.

A black and white line drawing of a young boy with a joyful expression, showing his teeth. He is wearing a simple t-shirt. In front of him is a plate with a bowl of prunes. He holds a spoon in his right hand, poised to eat. To the right of the bowl is a tall glass filled with milk, with a small '1/5' written next to it. Several small circles, representing prunes, are scattered on the surface around the base of the glass and the plate. Below the illustration, the words 'PRUNES' and 'are' are written in a large, stylized font.

Donald Davis and Mrs. Russle C. Davis playing the parts of the elder couple.

lins playing the parts of the elderly judge and his wife. We expect to give the play at some neighboring community in the near future in order to raise some more funds.

month by our county agent, and some twenty pupils joined it. We elected as officers: president, Avery Collins; vice president, Mildred Elam; secretary-treasurer, Omadell Easterling; song leader, Ruth Collins; cheer leader, Roderick Abrams; reporters, Durward Carter, Kenneth Collins, and Della Collins. Martin Collins was chosen as sponsor for the boys while

PRICELESS

Canned fresh prunes are not only called by some canners, (who ought to know) "the best thing that was ever put into a can," but they are mighty accommodating about the ways in which they can be served. Beginning with breakfast, here are some of the ways:

Cracked Wheat with Canned Prunes: Bring two cups water and

Friday, Jan. 3, the club holds

Friday, Jan. 3, the club holds its first regular meeting after being organized. The first Friday in each month is the date set for our meetings. All the parents of the community are cordially invited to attend the 4-H gatherings, and many have shown their interest by their willingness to approve certain projects for their children to undertake. Many of the students took pigs as their projects while others chose calves or chickens, with a few taking both calves and pigs.

Students of the first grade are glad rectly over the fire for five minutes. Then cook over hot water for an hour and a half. Make the night before, and simply reheat in the double boiler in the morning. Serve with canned fresh prunes and top milk or cream. Serves four liberally.

Getting a Job and Getting Ahead back in school after a brief s.

The sixth grade students are very much interested in the building of graphbooks in connection with their English work and other classes.

The eighth grade health class members are keeping individual health charts and are making weekly checks as to their diet and weight. The class is finding the new book, "Health Through Science," a very interesting subject.

Work Beyond Your Job

ONCE you have obtained a job, the attitude you take toward it right at the start is going to be vitally important. Many men are immediately content to begin drifting along, and

Without health nothing is worth

MIMA

Jan. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Barber are moving today to Forest Poley's place on Pelfrey branch.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Williams are moving to T. H. Williams' place here.

Miss Nora Williams and Kennie Williams visited Wednesday night with sister Mrs. Vergie Keeton.

Other men begin working themselves into a fever and think that just because they work hard and frantically they are certain to succeed. They fail utterly to realize that the only kind of work that produces real success is that which is directed by a soundly conceived and organized plan of action.

The wisest plan for a young man starting in on his career, is to work always a little beyond his the bedside of his brother, Bob of Relief, who is seriously ill.

Miss Grace Pelfrey and John Pelfrey, who had been visiting relatives here, have returned home. Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Smith, who had new territory. Find out what the men immediately ahead of you are doing and how they do it. Then, by study, by observation, and by taking every opportunity to gain experience in some phase of their work, equip yourself as far as home.

Mr. and Mrs. Parley Cantrell were Friday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Cantrell of Ophir.

had of you on the road to success you can depend upon it that opportunities to prove your greater value will not be lacking. In the uncertain nature of things vacancies may occur or emergencies will arise which will give you the opportunity to show what you can do—and it is to those who prove they can do more than they were hired to do lives here Sunday.

Conley of Crockett visited here Sunday.

Alford Cox of Elamton was the	Al crud
-------------------------------	------------

about 2 per cent of the world the rubber supply is taken

CANNED fresh prunes are not only called by the name "canners" (who ought to know) but also that which was ever put into a can, but they are mighty accommodating about the ways in which they can be served. We begin with breakfast, here are some of the ways:

Cracked Wheat with Canned Prunes. Bring two cups water and one-half teaspoon salt to a boil, add seven-eighths cup canned cracked wheat, and let boil directly over the fire for five minutes. Cook until the water is gone for an hour and a half. Make the night before, and simply reheat in the double boiler in the morning. Serve with canned fresh prunes and two milk or cream. Serves four liberally.

By Floyd B. Foster,
Vocational Counselor,
International Correspondence Schools

Work Beyond Your Job

ONCE you have obtained a job, the attitude you take toward it is right at the start. It is not a bit vitally important. Many men are immediately content to begin drifting along with as little effort as possible, without definite thinking about the present and less planning for the future.

Other men begin working themselves into a fever and think that just because they work hard and heatedly they will be promoted. They fail utterly to realize that the only kind of work that produces real success is that which is directed by a soundly conceived and organized plan.

The wisest plan for a young man starting in on his career, is to work always a little beyond his present job. As soon as you have mastered the particular job you were hired to do, begin to pick up into new territory. Find out what the men immediately ahead of you do and how they do it. Then, by study, by observation, and by taking notes, you will be able to gain experience in some phase of their work, equip yourself as far as possible so that you could handle their jobs.

To equip yourself to do the work of those who are a few steps ahead of you on the road to success you can depend upon it that opportunities to prove your greater value will show themselves. In the certain nature of things vacancies will occur or emergencies will arise which will give you the opportunity to show what you can do—and it is then that you will prove they can do more than they were hired to do that promotion surely comes.

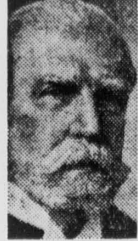

Wild Trees Give 2% Rubber
About 2 per cent of the world's crude rubber supply is taken from wild trees.

CURRENT EVENTS IN REVIEW

By Edward W. Pickard

AAA Is Killed by Decision of the Supreme Court

SIX justices of the United States Supreme court, including Chief Justice Hughes, joined in an opinion that killed the Agricultural Adjustment act. Three associate justices, Stone, Brandeis and Cardozo, dissented. The majority decision, read by Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts, held that the AAA was wholly unconstitutional because it invaded the rights of the states in seeking to control farm production. The whole system of processing taxes imposed to finance the program was swept into disarray.

Chief Justice Hughes

Not only are the processing taxes illegal but the court apparently declared the farm benefit contracts void and put up bars against any attempt of the federal government to regulate farm production by whatever means. Senators and representatives who immediately began planning legislation to continue benefit payments to farmers and to balance agricultural output did not seem to grasp the full significance of this part of the decision. The court said flatly that regulation of farm production is not within the scope of the federal government and of its powers to accomplish this, nor can it purchase adherence to a control scheme by federal payments.

The decision destroyed not only the original AAA but also the amended act of the last session of congress. The dissenting opinion held that the AAA was a legitimate employment of the power to tax for the general welfare. It attacked the theory that the preservation of our institutions is the exclusive concern of the Supreme court and suggested that under the majority decision the unemployment work relief act is unconstitutional.

President Roosevelt, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and other administration leaders had no immediate comment on the decision to make public, but the President called Attorney General Cummings and Mr. Wallace into conference. The administration and congress must do something to raise nearly half a billion dollars which the government has contracted to pay farmers and against which it now has no income, since the processing import is outlawed. Disposition of about $200,000,000 accumulated under court orders that impounded processing tax collections must be determined.

AAA Administrator Chester Davis stopped all payments to farmers "until further notice," and the Treasury department ordered all collectors of internal revenue to desist from further efforts to collect processing taxes. In his budget message President Roosevelt included revenue from processing taxes, so the Supreme court decision had the effect of throwing the 1937 budget still further out of balance by something like a billion dollars.

President's Message Is a Defiance of Opponents

SURROUNDED by kilg lights, microphones and movie cameras, President Roosevelt stood before the senate and house in night joint session and delivered what was nominally his annual message on the state of the nation. Actually it was not that at all, but a statement concerning the warfare and international disturbances on the other continents, followed by what the press generally considered an eloquent and militant political speech addressed to the people of the United States, who by the millions were listening in on their radios. Partisan opinion of his message is perhaps worthless. Of course his supporters praised it highly, and his opponents were equally emphatic in derogation.

President Roosevelt

Democrats and Republicans alike commended the President's opening paragraphs in which he boldly condemned the aggression of Italy and Japan, though without naming those nations; and there was little dissent from his assertion that the United States must maintain its neutrality while seeking to "discourage the use by belligerent nations of any and all American products calculated to facilitate the prosecution of a war in quantities over and above our normal exports to them in time of peace."

The remainder of the message, devoted to domestic affairs, was devoted chiefly to a belligerently worded defense of the New Deal measures of the administration, an attack on those who oppose them and a spirited passage in which Mr. Roosevelt defied and dared his critics to move for the repeal of those measures instead of "hiding their dissent in a cowardly cloak of generality." In only two paragraphs did the President dwell on "the state of the nation." In these he said that after nearly three years of the New Deal national income is Increasing, agriculture and industry are "returning to full activity," and "we approach a balance of the national budget." That last statement was greeted with mocking laughter from the Republican side of the chamber, and though the Democrats cheered loudly, Mr. Roosevelt himself smiled at his words.

One passage in the message was interpreted by some as a threat to close the lower courts to suits attacking the constitutionality of federal laws. The President told congress that its enactments require "protection until final adjudication by the highest tribunal," and added that congress "has the right and can find the means to protect its own prerogatives."

Altogether, the spectacle in the house chamber was extraordinary and unparalleled. All the senators and representatives were there, the latter being remarkably noisy. Eight members of the cabinet attended, and in the galleries sat Mrs. Roosevelt, the wives of cabinet members, diplomats and enough other privileged persons to fill the seats completely. Vice President Garner and Speaker Byrnes jointly presided over the session.

The President's message was denounced by the American Liberty league as "the most dangerous speech that ever came from a President," and by former President Herbert Hoover as a message of "war on earth and ill will among men."

Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic leader, struck back at the President's critics in a statement declaring that if the President had recited the Ten Commandments he would have been accused of having ulterior motives. He repeated the challenge of the President to his critics to repeal New Deal legislation.

Secretary of Labor Perkins Praises Year's Doings
SECRETARY OF LABOR FRANCES PERKINS found in the developments of the last year much of benefit for the American workman. In her annual report she cited these five great advancements for labor:

1. Unemployment compensation, accomplished through the social security act.
2. Old-age security, brought about also by the social security act.
3. Establishment of boards for settling industrial disputes locally.
4. Greater co-operation between the states and the labor department, through regional conferences.
5. Development of the United States employment service.

Even the large number of strikes during 1935 could be viewed with some satisfaction by her, for she said they were "due in part to the natural expectation of labor to share in the early fruits of business improvement."

For the future Miss Perkins envisioned a minimum wage law, a short work week of perhaps 40 hours, compensation insurance, and strict regulation of machinery to prevent industrial accidents.

Budget Message Shows Billion Dollar Deficit

IN HIS message to congress submitting his approved budget for the 1937 fiscal year, beginning July 1 next, President Roosevelt followed the double system of accounting his administration has always employed—one set of books for regular expenditures and income and another set for emergency spending and appropriations. He asserted that receipts from all sources in the next fiscal year will aggregate an estimated $5,554,000,000. Expenditures for all regular government departments are estimated at $5,649,000,000. So the "regular" budget will be in balance, with a surplus of $5,000,000.

But the message went on to say, after explaining that the regular government books will show fiscal affairs in the black, as to income and outgo, they will show red to the extent of $1,103,000,000 in works-relief spending, less the $5,000,000 "surplus," this leaving the new appropriation for further works-relief open for at least two months.

That figure of $1,103,000,000 represents the President's estimate of unexpended balances on July 1 from the $4,880,000,000 and previous emergency appropriations. It does not take into account probable new appropriations for similar purposes yet to be determined.

Guffey Coal Act Again Is Declared Invalid

ONCE more the Guffey coal act has been declared unconstitutional, this time by Federal Judge John P. Barnes of Chicago. He granted to a local coal company a temporary injunction to restrain federal officials from collecting a portion of the taxes imposed under the law. The injunction is to remain in force pending a ruling by the United States Supreme court on similar suits brought by the Carter Coal company in Washington, D. C., and by the Tway Coal company in Louisville, Ky.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

The Faculty Flag Pledge

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—I never heard of a law compelling a private individual in times of peace to take an oath to defend our flag and respect our institutions. Neither do I know of laws compelling us to give public jobs to men and women who refuse to take such an oath or requiring us to leave them in their jobs should they violate that oath. From the President of this country on down, the officials must swear to uphold the Constitution and support the government. Should any one of them wilfully fail to do so, the offender is liable to removal—amid loud cheers!

Then why not include teachers and college professors, those whose high task it is to mould youth into stuff fit for citizenship and civic responsibility?

Why should they be suffered to peddle sedition and yet go on drawing salaries from the public fund—these people who claim they have conscientious scruples when what most of us think they really suffer from is Communist biliousness? And for the students, as I understand it, the right of free speech and the gift of free education do not mean license to spout treason on a campus or scorn America in a classroom.

A red flag fits an auction sale, but I don't believe I'd ever get used to seeing it float over a district school-house.

Political Plagiarism
POLITICS certainly produces copycats. First, the young Republicans, now being greeted by a typical bounding juvenile, who's the last surviving drummer boy of Shiloh. Then the young Democrats come rallying as fast as wheelchairs will bring them, with their breakfast shawls and their ear-trumpets. The self-proclaimed "young" leader of any party is usually somebody who hopes to see a tripartite example to his grandchildren and at the same time get the old job back.

The Republicans hold a Grass-Roots convention. So this month at Atlanta there'll be what you might call a grass-widow convention for the revolting southern Democrats—absolutely too revolting for words, to hear Jim Farley talk. You see, they've been divorced, but the decree is not yet final.

Southern Democrats are great hands for seedling and remaining so every day in the year except just one day. On election, they become reconciled long enough to vote the straight Democratic ticket. Twenty minutes later, they're off the reservation again. I hear a number of bankers will attend. This would seem to indicate a changing trend. For quite a while after 1929, very few bankers went to Atlanta voluntarily.

Going Nuts in Hollywood
IF WHILE touring Los Angeles, you see a bushy-headed, wild-eyed, elderly gentleman aimlessly wandering about, don't jump too soon at the conclusion that he's a typical specimen of our famous coterie of hermits.

You see, they laid out Los Angeles and environs on the ground-plan of a drunken angleworm, and the system of numbering houses is further designed to encourage raving insanity. So what you behold may merely be an ex-resident of the Middle West, who came out here years ago to retire and bought him a cozy bungalow and incautiously went for a stroll and has been trying ever since to find his way back home again.

Not all the nuts were nutty when they first arrived. Many of them got that way trying to trace street addresses. After a year and a half here, I'm beginning to have trouble with the knee-reflexes myself.

But there's one consolation about going crazy in Hollywood. Unless you leave town, nobody would ever notice it.

Gen. Liggett's Passing
SEVENTY-EIGHT—the only contemporary lieutenant general of the United States army. For 50-odd years, he wore with gallantry and with honor the uniform of his country.

He fought Indians; fought border-bandits; fought Spaniards in Cuba; fought Germans in France; and, at the end, fought off death for many dragging months.

I saw him overseas, commanding our splendid First corps, which he made more splendid still. He was as plain as an old shoe, and as easy to get along with. His officers respected him, his soldiers loved him. They went where he sent 'em, and if they failed in their objective, they didn't come back. They went instead to report at the sills of the judgment seat the reason why they failed.

Behind his back, the Buck privates called him "Uncle Lig"—that ought to give you the idea. They'll like him over there—Israel Putnam, and Stonewall Jackson, and Forrest, and Grant, and all the rest of our real ones.

IRVIN S. COBB.
© North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.—WNU Service

All Around the House

When an apple pie is two-thirds baked, sprinkle grated cheese over the top. It adds much to the flavor of the pie.

A soft cloth moistened with kerosene instead of water will clean windows quickly and well in freezing weather.

Sprinkle the buds and leaves of tulips, hyacinths, etc., grown in the house. It prevents their shriveling.

Place a turkey or chicken with breast down in pan for the first half hour of roasting. Juices will then flow into the breast and meat will be much more tender.

If apples are pricked with a fork before putting into the oven to bake.

Sugar, used wisely, is an important source of energy to the body. Sinks will not crack open in baking.

The color and flavor of roast beef is improved when a tablespoonful of brown or white sugar is added to it.

To cut marshmallows easily dip a dry scissors over for cutting into powdered sugar.

To prevent fruit settling on bottom of gelatin desserts, whip until gelatin is of the consistency of whipped cream.

Clinkers that form on the stove lining will soon disappear if four or five oyster shells are burned on red hot coals that are left after fire has been shaken down.

© Associated Newspapers—WNU Service.

Nature Story
A quail dashed itself to death against the muzzle of Robert R. Cox's shotgun. The Arkansas City (Kan.) refinery executive said he has three witnesses to prove his story.

Bashful Irishman Offers Lady Friend a Rare Treat

Some time ago a young Irish farmer in the County Kilkenny was very much in love. He wanted to marry the girl, but being a shy lad he couldn't for the life of him ask her outright to marry him. He felt he would choke if he tried to mention the words marry or marriage to her. So, after taking much earnest, shrewd thought on the problem, he asked her in a whisper one evening: "Julia, how would you like to be buried with my people?"—Chicago Tribune.

FRIEND SOLVED HEADACHES

"Try Famous All-Vegetable Laxative," She Said
Headaches were making her miserable. She felt tired, listless, too. Then she found that Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) really corrected her intestinal sluggishness. NR Tablets are a combination of laxative elements provided by nature in plants and vegetables. Try them tonight. Note that they give thorough cleansing action that leaves you rested and invigorated. This trial means so much to you and is so simple to make. NR contains no phenol or mineral derivatives. Non-habit forming. Only 25¢—all druggists.

Highly Magnified Acid Crystals

No matter how long you have suffered, try the medical discovery Rutoxol, endorsed by 2,200 physicians and thousands of former victims who now work, play and again enjoy life. Rutoxol dissolves acid crystals carried by the blood into body tissues and joints cause rheumatism, neuritis, sciatica, lumbago, the pains, swellings, stiffness of rheumatism, and so on relief, write to Dept. 1, Matthews Laboratories, 121 W. 11th St., New York City for an absolutely Free Trial Treatment of Rutoxol.

MISDIRECTED KINDNESS

Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, American Red Cross chairman, returned to New York from Paris to find "kind-hearted souls have been knitting sweaters for the Ethiopians."

BEFORE BABY COMES

Elimination of Body Waste Is Doubly Important

In the crucial months before baby arrives it is vitally important that the body be rid of waste matter. Your intestines must function—regularly, completely without griping.

Why Physicians Recommend Milesia Wafers

These mint-flavored, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in solid form—much pleasanter to take than liquid. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly, then swallowed, they correct acidity in the mouth and throughout the digestive system, and insure regular, complete elimination without pain or effort. Milesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48, at 35¢ and 60¢, respectively, and in convenient tins for your handbag containing 12 at 20¢. Each wafer is approximately one adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores sell and recommend them.

Start using these delicious, effective anti-acid, gently laxative wafers today. Professional samples sent free to registered physicians or dentists if request is made on professional letterhead. Select Products, Inc., 4402 23rd St., Long Island City, N. Y.

The Original Milk of Magnesia Wafers

BE TALL

YOUR Height Increased in 15 Days or Your Money Back
Stop being called shorty. Write now for complete course, $2.00, or send 3¢ for convincing testimony. Guarantee. NEW YORK CULTURAL INSTITUTE, Box 273, Jamaica, N. Y.

RESOLVED - TO SAVE TIME AND MONEY THIS YEAR WITH Firestone
GROUND GRIP TIRES

SELF CLEANING

THE best New Year's resolution you can make is to put your car, truck, tractor, and all your farm vehicles on Firestone Ground Grip Tires.

These remarkable tires make their own road — wherever they go. That is why they will take your car or truck through mud, snow, or over unimproved roads — and you will not need chains.

On tractors and farm implements, Ground Grip Tires enable you to do more work in less time at a considerable saving in fuel. The great flexibility of the Gum-Dipped cord body cushions the shocks of rough going and protects costly equipment against vibration and breakage. They make equipment roll easier, reducing draft more than 50%.

No farmer can afford to be without Ground Grip Tires. See your nearby Firestone Auto Supply and Service Store or Firestone Tire Dealer today and resolve to end your traction troubles with Ground Grip Tires.

Listen to the Voice of Firestone featuring Richard Crooks/Nelson Eddy—with Margaret Sparks, Monday evenings over Nationwide N. B. C.—WEAF Network © 1936, F. T. & R. Co.

FOR CARS
4.40/4.50/4.75-21...	$ 7.85
4.75/5.00-19.....	8.50
4.50/4.75/5.00-20...	8.35
5.25/5.50-17.....	10.55
5.25/5.50-18.....	10.65
6.00-16.....	11.95

HEAVY DUTY
4.40/4.50/4.75-21...	$ 9.80
4.75/5.00-19.....	10.60
4.50/4.75/5.00-20...	10.35
5.25/5.50-17.....	12.50
5.25/5.50-18.....	12.75
6.00-16.....	14.15

Other Sizes Priced Proportionately Low

FOR TRUCKS
32x6 Truck Type....	$27.65
32x6 H.D.....	36.25
6.00-20.....	16.95
6.50-20.....	21.95
7.00-20.....	29.10
7.50-20.....	35.20
7.50-24.....	39.00
8.25-20.....	49.30
8.25-24.....	54.75
9.00-20.....	60.75

Other Sizes Priced Proportionately Low

FOR TRACTORS
GROUND GRIP TYPE
5.50-16.....	$11.05
7.50-18.....	17.45
9.00-36.....	73.95
11.25-24.....	66.60
CHEVRON TYPE
5.50-16.....	$ 9.40
7.50-18.....	14.95
9.00-36.....	62.95
11.25-24.....	56.60

Other Sizes Priced Proportionately Low

Quilt of Blocks That Picture Nursery Rhymes

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

Quilts made of blocks that picture the nursery tales that every child knows will interest both old and young. Always a good subject for a mother to work on, at bed time, with her child.

Outfit No. 49-1 consists of four 9-inch blocks stamped on a good quality bleached quilting material and will be mailed to you for 10 cents. The embroidery work is in the outline stitch. Use any color thread. Address Home Craft Co., Dept. A—Nineteenth and St. Louis Ave., St. Louis, Mo. Inclose a stamped addressed envelope for reply when writing for any information.

Keeping Right

If a man is right, all the bombardment of the world for five, ten, twenty, forty years will only strengthen him in his position. So that all you have to do is to keep yourself right. Never mind the world. Let it say what it will. It can do you no damage.—Talmage.

I'M SOLD

It always works

Just do what hospitals do, and the doctors insist on. Use a good liquid laxative, and aid Nature to restore clocklike regularity without strain or ill effect.

A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the real secret of relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has become. It gives the right kind of help, and right amount of help. Taking a little less each time, gives the bowels a chance to act of their own accord, until they are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin contains senna and cascara—both natural laxatives that form no habit. The action is gentle, but sure. It will relieve any sluggishness or bilious condition due to constipation without upset.

Generally Sooner

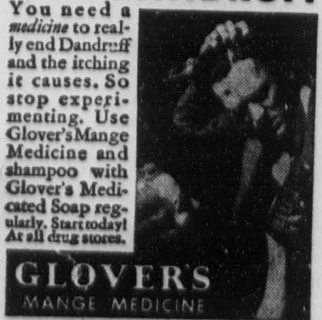

Sooner or later the wise fish runs across the bait that fools him.

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with anything less than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble to aid nature to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Get Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

STOPS DANDRUFF

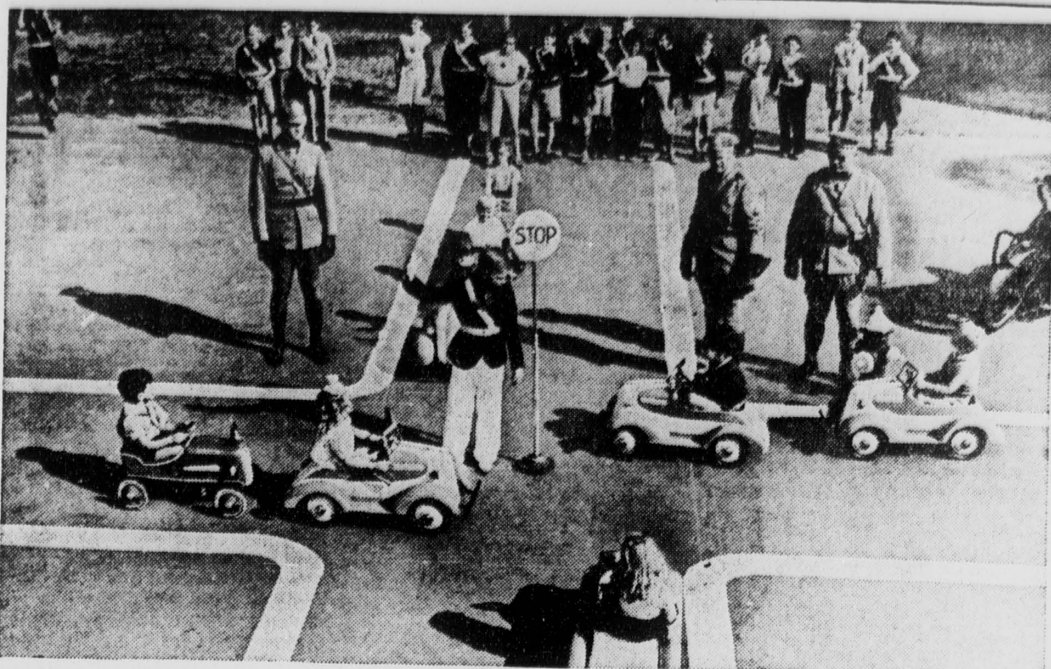

GLOVER'S MANGE MEDICINE

WNU-12 3-36

Don't be Tormented by ITCHY, BURNING SKIN. Quick relief follows the use of Resinol.

Miami Beach Children Get Traffic Training

HERE, in Miami Beach, Fla., "miniature" traffic police are directing miniature automobiles under the watchful eyes of real policemen. Thus elementary school children are taught by experience how to avoid the many traffic hazards.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

THE HUNTER IS DISAPPOINTED

HOW he knew he was safe. Lightfoot the Deer couldn't have told you. He just knew it, that was all. He couldn't understand a word said by the man in whose yard he found himself when he climbed the bank after his long swim across the Big River. But he didn't have to understand words to know that he had found a friend. So he allowed the man to gently drive him over to an open shed where there was a pile of soft hay, and there he lay down, so tired that it seemed to him he couldn't move another step. It was only a few minutes later that the hunter who had followed Lightfoot across the river reached the bank and scrambled out of his boat. Lightfoot's friend was waiting just at the top of the bank. Of course the hunter saw him at once.

The Hunter Looked Surprised and Then His Surprise Gave Way to Anger.

"Hello, friend!" cried the hunter. "Did you see a deer pass this way a few minutes ago? He swam across the river, and if I know anything about it he's too tired to travel far now. I've been hunting that fellow several days, and if I have any luck at all I ought to get him this time."

"I'm afraid you won't have any luck at all," said Lightfoot's friend. "You see, I don't allow any hunting on my land."

The hunter looked surprised, and then his surprise gave way to anger. "You mean," said he, "that you intend to get that deer yourself?"

"No," said he, "I don't mean anything of the kind. I mean that that deer is not to be killed if I can prevent it, and while he is on my land, I think I can. The best thing for you to do, my friend, is to get into your boat and row back where you came from. Are those your hounds barking over there?"

"No," replied the hunter promptly. "I know the law just as well as you do, and it is against the law to hunt deer with dogs. I don't even know who owns those two hounds over there."

"That may be true," replied Lightfoot's friend. "I don't doubt it is true. But you are willing to take advantage of the fact that some one else's dogs have broken the law. You know that those dogs had driven that deer into the Big River, and you promptly took advantage of the fact to try to reach that deer before he could get across. You are not hunting for the pleasure of hunting but just to kill. You don't know the meaning of justice or fairness. Now get off my land! Get back into your boat and off my land as quickly as you can! That deer is not very far from here and so tired that he cannot move. Just as long as he will stay here, he will be safe, and I hope he will stay until this miserable hunting season is ended. Now go!"

Muttering angrily, the hunter got back into his boat and pushed off. But he didn't row back across the Big River.

© T. W. Burgess.—WNU Service.

Eve's Epigrams

Whenever the wife gets a pain, she sees to it that it hurts Hubby.

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

FRUIT SOUPS

COCKTAILS are more popular as a fruit beginner for the dinner than soups, though in Europe the soups are enjoyed by prince and peasant, summer or winter; chilled with shaved ice they make a most nourishing dish. With fruit soups the nourishment depends upon the ingredients used, as with other soups. Prunes, raisins, figs, bananas, persimmons and pawpaws have more food value in themselves, though lacking in other things. With the addition of stock, milk and egg, the food value is increased. Dried or canned fruits are used as well as the fresh fruits.

Strawberry and Orange Soup. Sprinkle a pint of strawberries with sugar and let stand on ice for one hour. Make a sirup of one and one-half quarts of water and a pound of sugar, cook for ten minutes, add a quart of fresh berries with the juice of one lemon. Mash and strain, adding a cupful of orange juice with the berries, which have been iced. Serve cold.

Apple and Rice Soup. Core and slice thin eight unpeeled apples. Cook them with one-half cupful of rice until both are soft, using two quarts of boiling water. Put through a sieve, add spices and one-half cupful of orange juice or grapefruit marmalade. Serve hot.

A very appetizing salad may be made by stuffing well plumped and stewed prunes with cream cheese and finely minced celery. Serve on lettuce with a spoonful of french dressing, or any other kind preferred.

Prune and Peach Soup. Take one-third of a pound of dried prunes and two-thirds of a pound of dried peaches, soak overnight. In the

Smart Ensemble

Jane Wyatt here displays a three-piece suit, with fabric of small check in beige and wine red. The knee length overcoat is cut on swag lines with mannish revers. The hip length jacket is styled with four patchpockets cut on the bias. The belt is wine red leather. With the ensemble, Miss Wyatt wears a wine red velvet hat, wine and beige silk scarf and wine accessories.

MONDAY MORNING

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

MONDAY morning back to school. When a Sunday's over, Though I'd rather, as a rule, Stay and play with Rover. But we need it when we're men (That's my mother's warning). So it's back to school again Every Monday morning.

Monday morning I must go Back to school to study. But I hardly mind it, though— So do Bill and Boidy. There's a great big yard to run, Where you play and shout it; School is quite a lot of fun, When you think about it.

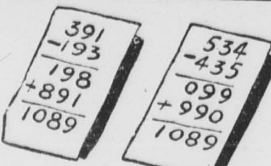

Monday, once upon a time, I was kept from going. Well, you think a thing's a crime, Without ever knowing. How you'll miss it, as a rule, Taken without warning. How you'll miss it—even school On a Monday morning.

© Douglas Malloch.—WNU Service

TRY THIS TRICK

By PONJAY HARRAH

Copyright by Public Ledger, Inc.

MAGIC NUMBERS

THIS is a mystic prediction. The magician writes something on a slip of paper which he seals in an envelope. A person is asked to write a number of three figures—all figures different. For instance, 193.

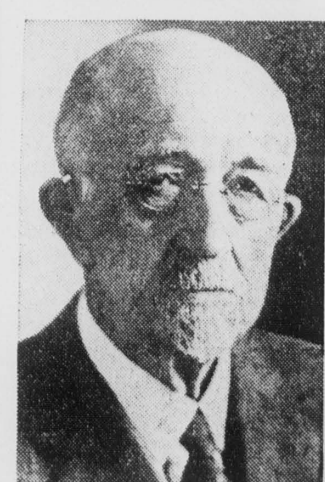

The magician does not see the number. He merely tells the person to reverse it and subtract the smaller from the larger. Example: 193, reversed, is 391. The subtraction leaves 198.

That, too, is kept from the wizard. He says to reverse the result and add. And 198, reversed, is 891. The two added, produce 1089. The envelope is opened. On the paper is the number 1089.

Whatever the original number used, the final total will be 1089. That is the secret of the trick. One point: always mention that a zero must be placed in front if the subtraction brings a two-figure number. Thus, 39 (which sometimes arrives) is treated as 039. Reversed, it is 903.

WNU Service.

Oldest School Head

Reverend Dr. Levi L. Sprague, president of Wyoming seminary, Kingston, Pa., believed to be the oldest secondary school administrator in the United States in years of service, quietly celebrated his ninety-first birthday on December 23. He has been teaching continuously for 74 years. Born in Beekmantown, N. Y., December 23, 1844, Doctor Sprague is the son of Nelson L. and Laura (Spencer) Sprague.

"Grace Darling" of North Wales

MRS. ELIZABETH JONES, the "Grace Darling" of North Wales, who spends a lonely life on Llanddwyn Island, Anglesey, is shown handling the oars in the male fashion. Besides being relief lighthouse keeper, she takes her share of coast watching and helps with the pilot boat.

IS WAR MADNESS, OR ADVENTURE, AS YOUTH SEES IT?

The hovering threat of World War is protested in a document signed by more than 340 psychiatrists who warn that the world is drifting toward a war madness.

War means all destructive forces are set loose by mankind against itself, they assert. On the shoulders of the statesmen to whom the document is addressed, they place the responsibility for the developing war psychosis.

"The suggestive force of speeches made by leading statesmen is enormous and may be dangerous," they say. Whole peoples, swayed by the influence of the hypnotic words of their leaders—the cries of danger and of "atrocities"—may be carried away by hallucinations and delusions and become neurotic. Nations unbalanced emotionally and mentally!

The other side of the picture is also pointed out by psychiatrists. War provides an outlet for the destructive aggressive forces in man, ordinarily repressed by modern civilized society. For this reason many find release and a fierce joy in the cruelties and bloodshed of battle. These do not become neurotic. They have a glorious time. Laughter may be seen on the faces of the youths setting forth gallantly for the "great adventure."

It has taken generations of stern discipline to teach man to master the impulses that lead him to antisocial conduct; to make him learn to work in peace with his fellow man toward a common good. If a World War takes the confining lid from the boiling cauldron of man's aggressive instincts, what will be the price to the future?—Science Service.

Immortal Seed

Tender words and loving deeds are immortal seed that will spring up in everlasting beauty in our own lives and in the lives of those that come after.

The Man Who Knows

Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches, or the pains of rheumatism, neuralgia or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

Bayer Aspirin

Miserable with backache?

WHEN kidneys function badly and you suffer a nagging backache, with dizziness, burning, scanty or too frequent urination and getting up at night when you feel tired, nervous, all upset . . . use Doan's Pills.

Doan's are especially for poorly working kidneys. Millions of boxes are used every year. They are recommended the country over. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

Break up that COLD

Perhaps the surest way to prevent a cold from "catching hold" and getting worse is, at once, to cleanse thoroughly. Do it the pleasant way. Flush the system with a hot cup of Garfield Tea—the mild, easy-to-take drink. It's the only one that's so good. Buy it at drug stores.

GARFIELD TEA

HEARD AROUND THE CORNER

MANSFIELD, ILL.

Tom Spence has quit farming and has bought a filling station and lunch stand at St. Joseph, Ill.

Sam Ashley and family will move from the Bezy farm to the J. E. Sawyer farm near Farmer City, March 1. Jasper Ashley and family will move to the Bezy farm soon.

John H. Perry has just returned from West Liberty, Ky. He has rented a 200 acre farm from John Reardon near Mohomet, Ill.

Oliver Peyton runs a filling station in Mohomet, Ill.

Asa Lewis has leased 190 acre farm near Farmer City, Ill. which he will farm next year.

Dave Stamp farms 340 acres near Morris, Ill.

J. C. Maxey lives in Mansfield, Ill. He is employed as janitor at the town hall, M. E. Church and K. of P. hall. Curtis Cox lives in Mansfield, Ill. He is in the stock buying and trucking business.

NICKELL

McGarver Harper spent the holidays with home folks and returned to his work Saturday.

Miss Wilma Harper gave a watch party, the following persons watched the old year out and the new year in: Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Trimble and son, Delbert and Buford Lykins, Ollie Wells, Herchel Nickell, Roy Nickell, Pauline and Emma Nickell, Edgar Nickell, Scyllar and Wilma Stamp, Dennis Stamp, Rebecca Peyton, Roy Peyton, Laura Trimble, Dora B. Nickell, Berillie Nickell, Wilma Harper, Willard Harper, Windell Harper, Ronald Gevedon, Oliver Carter, Ollie J. Carter, Virgil Graham, Vernon Weddington and Orval Brown.

W. E. Nickell was at West Liberty on business last week.

Rev. J. F. Walter was called last week to preach the funeral of Mrs. Bill Burton.

Roy Nickell left Saturday for Corydon, after spending the holidays with home folks.

FLAT WOODS

C. C. May of West Liberty spent Sunday at Woodsbend.

Earl Kemplin and family of Ill. returned home one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Buford Leach were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Hays of Omer Friday night of last week.

Roy Cox and Ova Cox spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Caudell and family of Ezel.

Victor Kemplin of Ebon spent Saturday night with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Kemplin.

Arvill Henry, Otis Ratliff, Roll May, Hager Wells, G. B. Cox, Garland Leach, Carl Cox were in Ezel Saturday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Cox were the Sunday afternoon guest of Mr. and Mrs. Finley Gose.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Robison were in West Liberty Saturday.

Mrs. M. M. Wells of Licking River was shopping at Woodsbend Monday.

Hobart Halsey of Mize was at Woodsbend the first of the week.

Church here Saturday night and Sunday.

UNCLE ZIP

LIBERTY ROAD

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Combs gave a social Saturday night in honor of their daughter, Miss Carrie Combs of Hazard. Those present were: Misses Gladys Short, Cora and Ora Combs, Nancy Elam, Elizabeth Gibson; Messers Bill May, Ora Cox, Clayton Perry E., and Harold Henry, Johnny Asa and Oliver Kemplin, Walter and Archie Short and Luther Leach; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Drexel Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Combs, Mr. and Mrs. Bascom Elam, Mr. and Mrs. Bristol Combs and Mr. and Mrs. Brock Combs and Mrs. Johnny Combs. Music was furnished by Clarence Gibson, Ova Cox, Clayton Henry and Bristol Combs. Hot chocolate and cakes were served by Mrs. Drexel Smith and Miss Carrie Combs.

Mr. and Mrs. Drexel Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Bascom Elam and daughter Nancy were visiting friends and relatives of near Hazard over the week end.

J. B. Combs and daughters Cora and Carrie returned after a week's visit with relatives at Hazard.

Mr. and Mrs. Bascom Elam had as guests Saturday night: Mr. and Mrs. Drexel Smith of Seymore, Ill., Mrs. James W. Elam and daughter Gertrude of Greer, Bobby Elam of Dayton and Orvil and Will Henry of Flat Woods.

Russel Hale and Gorman Frisby spent one day last week in Morehead.

Mr. and Mrs. Bristol Combs, J. B. Combs and Carrie Combs were in West Liberty Saturday on business.

SUNSHINE

TWENTY-SIX

Anna and Chester Perry entertained Saturday night the following: Homer Howard, Earl Hasty, Stanley Snipper, Catherine Hasty, Zolile Lewis, Walter and Tre a Perry, Mildred May from Ohio and their brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Perry from Illinois. They played games and made candy. All enjoyed the evening.

Mrs. Walker Mann and daughter Lizzie spent one day last week with Mrs. Harve Hasty.

L. B. McClure who has been sick for a while, is some better now.

Chester Perry was in town Monday on particular business.

Edgar McClure and Mrs. Ollie McClure and little son, Lynn from Roanoke, Va., are visiting home folks this week.

FLORRESS

E. D. Elam made a business trip to town last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Elam had as dinner guests Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Elam and Mr. and Mrs. Wiley C. Elam all of Florress.

Alonzo Nickell of Florress is moving to Fork Hill.

Elbert Nickell and family are moving to the Tom Elam place vacated by Alonzo Elam.

Tom Williams moved to Cottle on the river.

Wiley C. Elam and Jackson Elam had business on Rockhouse Friday.

Everybody in this section have sold their tobacco.

Willard Ross has moved in the Aunt May Elam house.

Hobert Roe visited Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Bolin last week and returned home Tuesday.

BLUE EYES

MATTHEW

Jan. 8.—C. C. McGuire, who had been seriously ill the past few weeks at Lexington, is better and at home again.

Bonnie and Hazel Brown and Bernie Lykins were home from Berea thru the holidays.

Ottis McGuire entertained a number of his young friends and school students the night before Christmas. Many interesting games were played, candy was made, etc.

Ova O. Delong, who is teaching school in Johnson county, spent Christmas with his mother and sister, Mrs. Frank Conley, of Hardburly. Ova was accompanied by two young ladies of Johnson county.

Clinton McGuire spent Christmas at Ashland.

Hobert McGuire and Bascom Hopkins returned Monday to Grayson after a two weeks' vacation here. HOPE

LENEX

Mrs. J. F. Gilliam, who has been spending a vacation with her sons at Lexington came home Tuesday reporting a good time.

Miss Lizzie Jarells of Sandy is visiting her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Holbrook of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Dooling visited her parents of Cow Branch, Mr. and Mrs. John Trimble, Saturday night.

Estill Holbrook is moving from the Harrison Conley property to Middlefork, where he will make his future home.

Mrs. Everett Day who had been visiting her parents at Elamton, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Day, came home Sunday.

Mrs. Dannie Caskey was the Sunday guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Buskirk.

Mrs. Martha Mack and granddaughter Martha visited Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Day of this place Saturday and Sunday.

L. B. Adkins visited his aunt and uncle of Cow Branch Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. John Trimble.

ELK FORK

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Keeton received news Friday that their little granddaughter, Jay Keeton, was dead. They left for Ashland Friday to attend the burial and funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Skaggs who had been at Portsmouth the past month returned home Wednesday.

Montie Keeton of Portsmouth, Ohio, came in Friday on a flying trip and returned Friday accompanied back by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Keeton.

O. L. Pelfrey was at Sandy Hook Friday on business.

Frank Day and children, Reva, Bonnie, Homer and Ruberto, who had been at Ashland and Portsmouth have come back to their old place on Elk Fork.

Jewell and Emory Wheeler were at West Liberty Saturday on business.

Quincy Ball and family have moved to Cecil F. Hutchinson property.

Several from here attended church at Wheelertown and Middle Fork.

Earl Adkins visited Sunday the guest of his aunt, Mrs. Ellen Ferguson at Crockett and attended church there.

Mrs. Russell Adkins and children, Wanda and Wilma Gene of Lucile visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. Steve Keeton a few days last week.

TRUE PAL

REXVILLE

Jan. 13.—To the wife of E. A. Sheel, a son—E. A. Fae.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Brewer and family spent the week end with Mr. Mrs. G. W. Brewer and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Paris Stamper and family have moved into their new dwelling house.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Davidson and family moved to the Z. N. Childers house which was vacated by Paris Stamper and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Halsey and family of Grassy Creek moved last week to the tenant house of Walter May.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Davidson and daughter, Marjorie and Mr. and Mrs. Paris Stamper and family were the dinner guests Sunday of John Brewer and his daughter, Mrs. Ella Stamper.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter May gave a party Saturday night. Several neighbors and friends were present. Candy was served and all enjoyed themselves to the greatest extent. JANIS

GRASSY CREEK

Jan. 13.—Maurine Gevedon is spending a few days with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Gevedon, of Nickell.

Carl Allen has gone to Seco to find work.

Irma Wells of Payton was a Sunday guest of Venus Allen.

J. M. Gevedon was a Sunday dinner guest of Prof. and Mrs. Ray M. Davis of Ezel.

Iva Amyx, who has been confined to his room for several weeks with flu, is improving.

Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Gevedon had as Sunday dinner guests Justine and Kathryn Gevedon, W. B. Byrd and son Rex, and Edward and Gertrude Gevedon.

Mrs. Jean Halsey of Index visited her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Blevins, here, Sunday.

Carmie Chaney and family, formerly of Sellers, have moved to the Maggie McClure property at Chapel.

Mrs. Joan Stamper of Ezel is visiting her son, J. Leonard Stamper, of Chapel. O GEE!

LIBERTY ROAD

Jan. 13.—Herbert Elam and John Gambill, who had been working in Ohio, returned home Dec. 24.

Pauline, the six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ruby Rowland, died at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Elam, on Sunday night, Jan. 5. The Rowlands had been in Ohio for some time but had come back before Christmas for a visit.

Pauline had malaria fever last fall and the doctor said a backset or drugs from the fever caused her death. She was a bright little girl with a sweet disposition and all who knew her loved her. The funeral was at the church building here on Tuesday with Rev. Frank Kennard of this place and Rev. A. C. Bradley of Dingus in charge. She was laid to rest in the Kennard graveyard by her little brother, who had been dead exactly six months and one day. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Evans and little daughter Betty Jo, of Dehart, spent the week end with Mr. Evans' parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Evans.

Duval Smith Jr. of Twentysix spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Bascom Elam.

Mr. and Mrs. Drexel Smith, Bascom Elam, and Duval Smith Jr. spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. James W. Elam of Greer.

Mr. and Mrs. Orvil Adams of Mize spent the week end with Mr. Adams' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Elam.

Miss Ora Ann Gose of Woodsbend spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Curtis Adams.

Alice Gibson and son Leroy, of Roe Branch, spent Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gibson.

Roy Cox of Flat Woods was in this section Sunday.

Duval Smith Sr. of Twentysix spent Tuesday with Bascom Elam.

Miss Gladys Short and Walter Short spent the week end with friends in West Liberty.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Thomas and family, of Illinois, are visiting friends and relatives here a few days. SUNSHINE

OAK HILL

Jan. 6.—Uncle Jim Cassidy of this place died Wednesday morning, Jan. 1. He became suddenly ill Sunday morning and was unconscious until he died. He leaves to mourn his loss his widow; two children, Lela of this place and Mrs. George Hunt, with whom they made their home; one brother, J. P. Cassidy, of Diney; one sister, Mrs. T. N. Ellington of Wrigley; and a number of grandchildren and other relatives. He was laid to rest in the family cemetery.

Miss Lena Collins, who is working at Wrigley, and Mrs. Garnett Davidson of Ashland visited their mother, Mrs. Lilla Collins, over the week end. Raymond Davis and Ray Cassidy, teachers here, spent the Christmas holidays with their home folks, but were back ready for work Monday morning.

Mrs. T. E. Cassidy, who had been in the Ashland hospital for the past month, is back home now. Her many friends are glad to know she is recovering.

Misses Lena and Opal Collins entertained the following guests Sunday for dinner: Misses Irene and Carmie Easterling, Nellie Hampton, and Alva Collins, and Mrs. Garnett Davidson of Ashland and Olive Sergeant of Wrigley.

Herman Collins went to Morehead last week to look for work.

One of the fine horses of Mrs. Ellen Day fell last week and broke its neck. The play, "Eyes of Love," sponsored by the P.T.A., which was given here a few nights ago, was well attended and we wish to take this method of expressing our thanks to those from Blair Mills and Wrigley and other schools who came to our rescue. RED

NEW CUMMER

Jan. 13.—We have been having some bad weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Kermie Rudd and baby Jimmie and Dolan Wilson and Miss Clara McNeely visited Mr. and Mrs. Russell Roe Sunday.

Miss Irene McGuire has been absent from school on account of measles.

Joe McKinney of Pekin visited Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Rudd Sunday.

Mrs. Lukis Rudd and children, Roy and Lena Mae visited Mr. and Mrs. Charley Rudd Thursday and Friday.

TRUE LOVER

JEPHTHA

Jan. 13.—Elder H. R. Cox of Crockett filled his appointment as pastor of Martha church on Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Milt Sparks was the week end guest of her sick brother, Sanford Kelly, at Moon.

Auty Ferguson was in West Liberty on Sunday.

Elder W. J. Beulhimer is moving this week to within about two miles of Redbush, on Ira Lester's farm on Laurel creek.

Elder C. L. Williams has moved to Smiths Creek, and a Mr. Holbrook has moved into the house vacated by Mr. Williams.

Elder R. H. Ferguson was in Rowan and Elliott counties on business last week, and filled his appointment Sunday as pastor of Lacey Creek church.

Mrs. Jewel Pelfrey, who recently moved to Splitwood, visited relatives here last week. SLAB

LOGVILLE

Jan. 13.—Herbert Elam and John Gambill, who had been working in Ohio, returned home Dec. 24.

Pauline, the six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ruby Rowland, died at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Elam, on Sunday night, Jan. 5. The Rowlands had been in Ohio for some time but had come back before Christmas for a visit.

Pauline had malaria fever last fall and the doctor said a backset or drugs from the fever caused her death. She was a bright little girl with a sweet disposition and all who knew her loved her. The funeral was at the church building here on Tuesday with Rev. Frank Kennard of this place and Rev. A. C. Bradley of Dingus in charge. She was laid to rest in the Kennard graveyard by her little brother, who had been dead exactly six months and one day. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Evans and little daughter Betty Jo, of Dehart, spent the week end with Mr. Evans' parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Evans.

Duval Smith Jr. of Twentysix spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Bascom Elam.

Mr. and Mrs. Drexel Smith, Bascom Elam, and Duval Smith Jr. spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. James W. Elam of Greer.

Mr. and Mrs. Orvil Adams of Mize spent the week end with Mr. Adams' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Elam.

Miss Ora Ann Gose of Woodsbend spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Curtis Adams.

Alice Gibson and son Leroy, of Roe Branch, spent Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gibson.

Roy Cox of Flat Woods was in this section Sunday.

Duval Smith Sr. of Twentysix spent Tuesday with Bascom Elam.

Miss Gladys Short and Walter Short spent the week end with friends in West Liberty.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Thomas and family, of Illinois, are visiting friends and relatives here a few days. SUNSHINE

OAK HILL

Jan. 6.—Uncle Jim Cassidy of this place died Wednesday morning, Jan. 1. He became suddenly ill Sunday morning and was unconscious until he died. He leaves to mourn his loss his widow; two children, Lela of this place and Mrs. George Hunt, with whom they made their home; one brother, J. P. Cassidy, of Diney; one sister, Mrs. T. N. Ellington of Wrigley; and a number of grandchildren and other relatives. He was laid to rest in the family cemetery.

Miss Lena Collins, who is working at Wrigley, and Mrs. Garnett Davidson of Ashland visited their mother, Mrs. Lilla Collins, over the week end. Raymond Davis and Ray Cassidy, teachers here, spent the Christmas holidays with their home folks, but were back ready for work Monday morning.

Mrs. T. E. Cassidy, who had been in the Ashland hospital for the past month, is back home now. Her many friends are glad to know she is recovering.

Misses Lena and Opal Collins entertained the following guests Sunday for dinner: Misses Irene and Carmie Easterling, Nellie Hampton, and Alva Collins, and Mrs. Garnett Davidson of Ashland and Olive Sergeant of Wrigley.

Herman Collins went to Morehead last week to look for work.

One of the fine horses of Mrs. Ellen Day fell last week and broke its neck. The play, "Eyes of Love," sponsored by the P.T.A., which was given here a few nights ago, was well attended and we wish to take this method of expressing our thanks to those from Blair Mills and Wrigley and other schools who came to our rescue. RED vived by her parents, one sister, Dorothy, and one brother, Charles.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Kennard received the sad news that their little granddaughter, Barbara Dean Kelley, of West Frankfort, Ill., died Dec. 23 of whooping cough and pneumonia.

Mrs. Eliza Pack and R. L. Kennard made a business trip to Salyersville one day last week.

Rodney Elam returned to his school at Berea after spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Elam.

Paul, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Williams, has gone to Berea to enter school.

Ottis McGuire of Matthew was in this community on Saturday.

Dolphie Elam, who has been in the CCC for some time, is home again.

Ruby Rowland left Sunday for Ohio.

WELLS HILL

There was quite some excitement in the home of Emmet Adams on Tuesday when little Betty Lee, who had been sick for several days, was accidentally given a dose of iodine by her mother. However, the results were not serious. She is now recovering from a bad case of pneumonia.

Lacy Brown of Straight Creek, who has been very ill for some time, was moved to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, Sunday, in order to receive better medical treatment.

Mrs. Joe Fugett visited her father, James Elam, of Little Caney, Sunday. Louise Neal, who is attending school at West Liberty, spent Sunday at home.

Winfred Lewis of Index was a pleasant caller in our neighborhood on Sunday.

Emmet Dale, little son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Adams, is very ill with pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Zack Haney of Stacy Fork spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Colza Helton.

Mrs. Andy Blevins, who has been very sick the past two weeks, is improving a little.

Mrs. W. B. Reed took her husband's place in the store yesterday while he looked after business in Salyersville.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Conley and little son Johnny, of Portsmouth, O., spent the week end here with Mrs. Conley's sister, Mrs. Verna Lacy, and family. Their sister, Miss Ruby Williams, returned with them Monday.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE

All persons having claims against the estate of Blanche Burton, deceased, will immediately file same with the undersigned Administrator, properly proven.

These may be filed with me personally or at the office of W. M. Gardner, Attorney.

W. M. BURTON, Administrator
Estate of Blanche Burton, deceased

FIRE INSURANCE

Protects in Emergency
Standard Rates

J. L. BLAIR, Agent
West Liberty, Ky.

666 COLD AND FEVER
first day
LIQUID - TABLETS HEADACHES
SALVE - NOSE DROPS in 30 minutes

Medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub
VICKS COUGH DROP

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

SPECIAL SUBSCRIPTION BARGAINS

FOR ALL THE FAMILY

Clear the track! The throttle is wide open—and we are bearing down on you with two big money-saving magazine offers that break all transcontinental records for value. STOP! LOOK! LISTEN! Don't miss out on these "limited" offers.

YOU GET THIS NEWSPAPER (1 FULL YR.)

OFFER NO-1

ANY THREE MAGAZINES FROM THIS LIST

(Check 3 magazines thus "X")

- ☐ MODERN MECHANIX & INV. . . 1 Yr.
- ☐ BETTER HOMES & GARDENS . . 1 Yr.
- ☐ CHRISTIAN HERALD .